Tight Clothes and Large Hats Give Title to Women.

The common opinion is that real heroics are something unusual and rare. When a woman saves a human being from drowning at the risk of her own life, she is lauded as a heroine, and societies give her medals, by way of distinguishing her from the rest of womankind.

She wears all that togery in which she must be exceedingly uncomfortable, and she wears it so placidly so smilingly that man thinks—but what does man think when he beholds a fashionably dressed woman?

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.) Washington, D. C. July 17.—Regular Republicans are declaring more boldly than ever that Roosevelt will endorse Taft.

Vice-President Sherman says that Roosevelt will endorse the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and the Taft administration in every particular.

I do not believe it. I do not believe it because I find Roosevelt to be too clever a politician to put his O. K. on such a band of criminals as that which dominates the Republican party.

I wish to make no apology for the use of the word "criminals." I employ the term advisedly.

The Republican party is today controlled by and for the sugar trust, the lumber trust and other similar organizations each and every one of which is in existence despite the anti-trust laws of the country.

Having no legal right to exist, each of these greedy monopolies is a criminal corporation, and if the attorney general of the United States would do his full duty they would be forced to dissolve.

But if Roosevelt does endorse the Taft administration it will be and ought to be his Waterloo, following in the dust allotted time his triumphant "return from Elba."

Roosevelt openly endorses such standard-bearers as Taft and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts it will mean that he deceived the people as to his true sentiment as completely as the prize fighter Jeffries deceived the sporting world as to his real physical condition.

Taft Past Redemption. Roosevelt will not dare endorse Taft for these reasons: First: Taft personally promised reelection downward, and then personally signed a tariff bill which revised the tariff upward.

GIGANTIC BANKING TRUST

Morgan Et Al. To Control Country's Financial Institutions.

Headquarters in New York And Chicago; Branches in Important Cities.—Report Interesting.

A billion-dollar-banking power straddling the nation, with one foot planted in New York, the other in Chicago and controlling strings leading into every dominant branch of industry, transportation and finance is the ambitious scheme of world embracing power that American money magnates are trying to achieve.

J. P. Morgan is the primal mover in the great deal. The pick-up trust interests of Chicago are his principal tackle. The Standard Oil Rockefeller contingent is either aiding and abetting the scheme, or trying to join and nail to head it off—no one seems to know which.

The object is an embryonic central bank for the United States, so that when the country is ready to discard the present currency system there will be only one banking power in the country capable of taking on the issuing function of the nation.

Rival Bank of England. The New York wing of the banking trust, it is declared would rival in resources the Bank of England. With its Chicago end, its trust company affiliations and the control it would exercise over the reserve funds of the banks of the country, it is now banking power would rival in resources any two of the great state banks of Europe combined.

The preliminary of a series of giant mergers have already been started and the securing of the necessary control has been practically accomplished within the past six months. It began with sweeping purchases of big blocks of stock of leading New York banks. The public was not aware of what had been accomplished until Morgan directors began to take their places upon the boards of certain big banks.

The three New York banks figure in the possibilities are the National City, the National Bank of Commerce and the First National. The National City has always been regarded as a Standard Oil Rockefeller institution. Recently the Morgan interest in this bank has been enlarged and Morgan directors now on the board of the great Rockefeller institution include George W. Perkins, J. P. Morgan Jr., J. Ogden Armour and Chicago; P. A. B. White, formerly of Chicago but now in New York; and Cyrus H. McCormick, a Chicago man with a big finger in the Morgan trust. The bank has $20,000,000 of capital and $219,000,000 of deposits.

Morgan interests started buying into the National Bank of Commerce six months ago it was rumored that it was to be merged with the National City. The rumors have been dropped out this week along with the buying of stock of the Commercial City Chicago interests believed to be identified with the pecking trust.

If these two institutions were put together the result would be a bank with over $300,000,000 of capital and surplus and combined resources in excess of $500,000,000. This merger alone would make a bank that would outclass in banking resources the Bank of England.

Another Morgan Bank. But added to it is the First National of New York, another big Morgan bank, with a capital and surplus of $300,000,000 and deposits of $100,000,000. These three institutions a 100 with their trust company affiliations would practically constitute a billion dollar banking power.

The working of the forces toward centralization were further in evidence when the Morgan pecking trust affiliates started to buy the leading Chicago bankers and made them vice-presidents of the National City. These are Joseph N. Talbert and S. McRoberts.

In Chicago the merger plan has gone forward with equally rapid strides. The Commercial National and the Commercial National joined forces last month. The new Continental Commercial Bank has combined resources of over $200,000,000. It is claimed to be the ultimate purpose to combine this new merger in Chicago with the First National of Chicago and with the First Trust and Savings Bank and with other trust company and banking affiliations near a Chicago structure with a combined banking power directly and indirectly controlled of $500,000,000.

Working jointly with the New York aggregation of banking capital in both its foreign and domestic operations this great money power would be able to shape the financial policy of the country and exercise a large control in the world's money markets that is wielded now by any of the great state banks of England and the Continent.

Its influence would be felt in all of the great moves in railway finance. It would practically dominate the industrial trusts including oil, steel, harvest meat and foodstuffs and would wield the same power now exercised by the Bank of England in influencing the price and the movement of discounts and domestic and foreign exchange. It would be the central banking power, in fact lacking only the power of note issue and the power of the government to print money to join issues with it to make and solve the currency problem.

By way of controlling and clinching control it is pointed out by bankers that all would be necessary would be the assembling of a closing control of such institutions as the $100,000,000 National Shattuck Bank of Boston and a few of the other larger institutions in such cities as Philadelphia and St. Louis. Control over vast banking resources of the country would be exercised.

A tariff and generally means of normal trade necessities. Country banks must keep balances in the secondary reserve centers like Cleveland in order to have balances at home; while they can check for remittances.

Banks in secondary cities must maintain heavy balances in the leading reserve centers like New York, Chicago and St. Louis in order to effect drafts for remittances against the local centers of commercial distribution.

That the reserves of the nation naturally concentrate in the biggest banks of the largest cities in order to afford a basis for domestic exchange. In consequence the central bank for which Aldrich tried to pave the way in his recent Western trip is already in the making in the world powerful banking alliances and mergers now heading out the world over.

STATE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM. "We, the representatives of the Democratic party in North Carolina, in convention assembled, rejoice in the call occasioned by the coming election and the opportunity thus offered to lift up again in the midst of the people of North Carolina the banner of the Democratic party as sure standard of their rights and the unflinching guide of their progress and we reaffirm our allegiance to the cardinal principles of Democratic government and congratulate the people of North Carolina upon the wise, progressive and economical administration of the affairs of government since the return of the Democratic party to power in this State.

"We commend to the people of North Carolina the consideration of the success with which the affairs have been administered by the Democratic officials and clean, efficient and economical conduct of the State government from the day of the return to power of the Democratic party and we reaffirm our declarations of our party upon the questions of the extension and improvement and upbuilding of the internal affairs of the State and the institutions provided by the State for the cure of our citizenship both charitable and educational and pledge ourselves to the continuation upbuilding and development thereof.

"We pledge ourselves to the continued development of internal affairs of the State; to the continuation of the policy of education which has been carried forward with such success under the Democratic administration; to the further development of local improvements.

"We commend and approve the administration of Gov. W. W. Mitchell, and the other State officials and representatives in Congress for their activity in behalf of the people of North Carolina.

"Internal development and improvement lead to the upbuilding of any citizenship and we take pride in the progress that has been made under Democratic government in the building of roads and the extension of means of communication and transportation all over the State and we particularly approve of the work in this behalf by the Good Roads Association of North Carolina.

"To the maintenance of the institutions for the insane, deaf, dumb and blind and to the extension of these institutions to meet the demands made upon them and the needs of the unfortunate who require the care and maintenance of the government.

"We pledge ourselves to the continued aid and assistance of the Confederate soldier and demand appropriations for his comfort and care.

"We recognize the great growth and improvement of the State a long material and intellectual maintenance of the common school system of North Carolina and the pledge of the party heretofore made of a four months free school in every district of the State has been fully met and we promise the continued support and improvement of the public school system of the State and the extension of the same to the institutions of the State for higher education to which these institutions may be added upon a permanent basis of maintenance consistent with the growth of the school system of the State and the increased population and demands of her citizenship.

"And we favor the schools of the State, a more liberal instruction in the agricultural interests in such schools.

"The supervision and control of public service corporations is well recognized right of the State and national government and we pledge ourselves to the enforcement of this right in the interest of the people of the State consistent with fair and just treatment of the public service corporations and no public service corporation shall grant any special privileges to any person or corporation.

"Private monopolies in restraint of trade are inconsistent with the growth and development of internal affairs of the State and the liberties of the people and should be allowed. We are opposed to illegal combinations in restraint of trade, trusts and monopolies and favor the enactment and enforcement by the State and National governments of such laws as will make their enforcement impossible.

"We condemn and oppose any and all unreasonable discrimination in freight rates against the towns and cities of North Carolina and in favor of the towns and cities of other States.

"We demand the enactment of a tariff for revenue only to meet the expenses of a government economically administered."

How George Carmack Stumbled Across Biggest Gold Deposit in the World. Upon events as trivial as the digging of a grave or a joke on a chance stay of a few moments in a locality have hinged the discovery of world's great mines. The great bonanzas of Mexico, Peru, Brazil, South Africa, Australia, Nevada, California, Colorado and the Klondike have all been discovered on such a fortunate chance.

Concerning each lucky find a tale is told—a tale of romance, or of comedy or melodrama or tragedy. Tales such as some of these, no doubt are singular in their statements of various facts but many are true; and nearly all are as well authenticated as the majority of what are accepted as the facts of history.

The particular story regarding the discovery of gold in the Klondike, although it is not unlike fiction in substance, yet it is true. Gold was known to exist in Alaska and the Klondike country for decades before the epoch of the great discovery; and various little mining camps and springs into existence, such as Forty-Mile, Circle City and Eagle City, where the miners made living wages, but little more. In 1894 H. L. Henshaw was prospected the Indian river and its tributaries. In 1894 he discovered a ledge of gold in the Klondike watershed and began prospecting in the led of a stream named the Klondike. He washed eight cents to the pan, and was so delighted he named the stream Klondike creek and hastened back to Seattle to get assistance. With three companions he built sluices and washed out $750—the first gold ever taken from a Klondike vein. Returning to the diggings, from a trip to Sixty-Mile he fell in with George Washington Carmack and his partner, James W. Hootch, who were prospecting in the Klondike country and industry. He asked Carmack to accompany him back. The prospect was in no hurry when re-quested, but he later followed Hootch with two Indians, and all three staked claims near Henderson. That they were led back to a fishing village on the Klondike taking short cut by way of Rabbit creek. After travelling down this creek a few miles they stopped to rest and one of the Indians washed out a pan of gold. That pan contained a magic key that unlocked the great secret of the north. It revealed one of the richest gold deposits ever found on earth, yielding $100,000,000 within six years and opening a new era, not only for the Klondike country and Alaska, but for the whole Pacific northwest.

Carmack's strike on Bonanza creek was made August 16, 1896 and it was not until a year later that the world received the news and then in such a startling way that the public was taken by storm.

On June 16, 1897 the steamer Explorer tied up at her dock in San Francisco and a strange-looking assortment of passengers filed ashore, carrying baggage still more strange. There were tall men, thin men, all dressed in long overcoats, and all with long hair and beards. They were all dressed in long overcoats, and all with long hair and beards. They were all dressed in long overcoats, and all with long hair and beards.
