TOLD FOR A MEMORIAL OF HER
Matthew 26:11-October 30
"She hath done what she could."—John 13:3.

In a previous study we considered the Great Teacher's triumphal entry into Jerusalem on the ass, and his tender of himself to the Nation of Israel as their King, in fulfillment of the prophecy of Zechariah 9:9-12.
That was five days before the Passover. For several days Jesus taught in the temple, going at night to the home of Lazarus, Martha and Mary at Bethany. He knew what to expect—his hour was come. He knew that even then the chief priests and elders of the people were considering his destruction and hesitating only lest it should cause tumult. Their indignation against the Great Teacher was that he did not teach as they taught and that his teachings had much more power with the masses than all their teachings combined. Anger, envy, hatred, united in branding him as an impostor and in sending him to his death, "for the good of the cause."

The feast at Bethany referred to in this study may have been on the night before our Lord's betrayal, two days before the feast of the Passover. But the contents of opinion seems to be that it occurred on the Sabbath evening preceding the triumphal ride to Jerusalem. It matters not, however, that his disciples were present. During the feast a woman approached with an alabaster flask of very precious perfume. She poured it upon his head and the entire room was sweet with the odor. The woman was Mary, the Sister of Lazarus and Martha.

Another account shows that the present made by the disciples against this as a waste was investigated by Judas, the treasurer of the little company of the Lord's disciples. John remarked that he was a thief and carried the bag and intimated that he was more interested in the money than in the poor and that his mention of the poor was merely a subterfuge. But the Great Teacher rebuked his disciples, saying, "Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me; in that she hath poured this ointment upon my body she did it to prepare me for burial. Truly I say unto you, whosoever this Gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this which this woman hath done be told for a memorial of her" (Matthew xxvi, 10-13). How conspicuous was the Great Teacher!
How sympathetic! How appreciative of everything done for him!

"She Hath Done What She Could"
The Lord, in line with all the Scripture teachings and usages, declines to recognize woman as a teacher or religion in the Church amongst his followers. No woman was given a place amongst the twelve Apostles—nor even among the seventy evangelists were sent forth with the simple message, which any woman could have given, surely as gladly as any man, or more so; even on this mission he did not send women, nor even a representative of the sex. The man, in Scriptural usage, is the figure of the Lord; the woman, the
of harmony with the figure that the Church should be the instructor and the Lord the pupil. Consistently, therefore, it would have been improper for woman to have been commissioned to represent the Lord. Hence, women as teachers in the Church have no authority in the Bible for the position. We read that the serpent beguiled Mother Eve and made of her a teacher of er-the lesson from the Book and not attempt to teach the Book.

"The Poor Always With You" Our Lord, in reply to the argument of Judas, that the ointment should have been sold for a large sum for the benefit of the poor, answered, "The poor ye have always with you. Whenever ye have always with you good, but me ye have not always. Poverty is sure to be a factor in the social order during the present time, because, in our fallen condition as a race, some are more brilliant of mind than others and selfishness is the general rule.
Hence until the end of the reign of sin and death the poor will be here. And there is a blessing attached to every good deed, every noble endeavor to help any member of the race to higher and better conditions, mentally, morally, physically. By and by there will be no poor, for, under the Kingdom condition, love will be the ruling principle, instead of selfishness.

"But Me Ye Have Not Always"
"This was true of the Master. A little while and he was gone from them, according to the Father's right hand.
The same principle prevails in respect to the Lord's followers staid, "The members of his Body." Whatever we can do for these members, the great Head will consider as though done unto himself. While, therefore, it will always be in order to do good unto all men as we have opportunity, it will always be in order also to do good "especially unto the household of faith."

The spirit of selfishness in Judas led him from one degree to another of cov-etousness until he was willing to sell his Master to his enemies. Alas, what a terrible power for evil is selfishness!
How many are willing to barter the Truth for the sake of worldly ease or prosperity! Such as have the spirit of the Truth to a considerable extent should beware of where selfishness leads if followed—to the Second Death.

The Popular Idea of Marriage.
It is certain that the society men of to-day marries a woman who makes his home a restful place from which he is seldom tempted to wander. Why should he? The sunniest, brightest room in the house is his sanctum; here are his favorite books, pictures he likes, the latest magazine with leaves cut and no end to pipes.
When the train whistles into the depot, in which is this fortunate man, a fire is started on the low hearth to make the room cheerful, although the warmth is not needed. To this room he brings his friends and here husband and wife sit when alone. Everything that will help the wife to make a home a means of grace she reads, on her table are always to be found books and magazines that talk of the higher life of the home. We mean good cooking when we say higher life, a hitherto neglected part of religion. This man formerly out every evening rarely goes to the theater or opera, or ball because his home has greater attraction, and he is really now so sensible, well informed and acquainted to something that his friends are rejoiced that the seemingly incongruous marriage came about.

A Hint To Mothers.
If you wish to cultivate a glowing maddening, censorious spirit in your children be sure when they come home from church, a visit or any place to which you do not accompany them to ply them with questions concerning what everybody wore, body and did; and if you find anything in all this to ensure always do it in their hearing. You may rest assured if you pursue a course of this kind, they will not return to you unladen with intelligence; and rather than it should be uninteresting they will by degrees learn to embellish in such a manner as shall not fail to call forth remarks and expressions of wonder from you. You will by this course render a spirit of curiosity which is early visible in children and which, if rightly directed, may be made the instrument of enriching and enlarging their minds—a vehicle of mischief which shall serve only to narrow them.

BUTLER AND BONDS.
The Traitorous Boss is Judged Merely by What He Has Done.

Mary Ann Butler's thick hide which we have tendered was tough enough to make armor plate for a breadbasket has been pelted so that he has come out in statement declaring that he had not had any connection with the fraudulent special tax bonds which his party in reconstruction days issued to the bosses without one dollar going being used for the purpose designated.

Mary Ann may be telling the truth but it is up to her to prove it, having been false treacherous to both friend and party, a presumption is that he is a liar.

The old saying, "Give a dog a bad name and you'd better kill him, measures Butler exactly.

Governor Kitchin in his telling speech stated that he did not charge Butler with being employed by the holders of the fraudulent bond, but he did charge him with accepting the fee while an accredited Senator from this State to collect certain bonds the Legislature had compromised.

Of course no decent self respecting man would have done this. What honest man in the employ of another would seek to bring about the destruction of the man employing him?

This Butler did and for the money that was in it for him. Is he any stretch of the imagination to infer that such a Jackal would do the same thing over again?

Butler's career was born in deception and its growth has been fur-tillized by repeated applications of the same.

AIRSHIPS' FATAL HOUR
Wellman Tells Of Moment When Shifting Wind Destroyed Hope Of Reaching Europe.

At 9 o'clock on Sunday night our approximate position was latitude 61 degrees north and longitude 61 west. Here came the serious change in the wind. It shifted into the north west and freshened to about 20 miles an hour and before it the American drifted at the rate of about 25 miles an hour. It was impossible for us under these conditions to continue on our northerly course, which would have kept us in the lane of the European liners.

Furthermore, the equibrator was pulling hard. As the lower end of it rode the heavy sea, which had been kicked up by the stiff breeze it jerked shockingly on the lines which held it to the America. Under this stress the ship set up a rolling motion, which added to the strain and threatened the entire destruction of her craft if long continued.

It was a dread night for the men aboard the ship. There was much to be done to ease the strain, and all did everything possible.
At times some would become exhausted, and one by one the men would sleep for a time. They went to the hammocks expecting they would awake to find themselves in the ocean, but all they wanted was to sleep, and they did so.

At no time, however was there any sign of faltering on their part. At the worst moments they were calm and even cheerful.—New York Times.

The Brain is Very Adaptable.
Each vocations make a different call upon the brain and develops faculties and qualities peculiar to itself, so that as the various profession and specialties multiply the brain takes on new adaptive qualities, thus giving greater variety and strength to civilization as a mass, says Orion Sweet Marder in "Success Magazine."

When the world was young the brain of man was primitive, because it's demand upon it was largely for self-protection and the acquisition of food, which called only for his developing faculties of his lower, its animal part. As civilization advanced, however, there was a call upon the brain and a more varied development until today in the highest civilization, it has become exceedingly complex.

Philadelphia Press Finds Republicans Must Carry Doubtful Districts.

The press has received special reports from all over the country as to the probable results of the Congressional elections to be held in November. This task has been done with great care and his analysis presented is as accurate as is possible at this time.

There are 222 members of the House, and all but six, which have already been chosen, will be elected in November. In the present House there are 117 Republicans and 114 Democrats. One hundred and ninety six constitute a change of 21 from Republican to Democratic in the present membership would give the Democrats just a majority. They have already made a gain of two in Maine, leaving twenty districts yet to be won.

The reports received by the Press set down 162 pure Republican districts and 172 pure Democratic districts—classified and including the members already elected while 57 districts are as uncertain from the present opinion that they are put down as doubtful districts, while the Democrats need but 23.

Of the 27 doubtful districts 45 are now represented by Republicans and 13 by Democrats. The doubtful districts now Republican are Illinois 2; Iowa 1; Kansas 1; Kentucky, Maryland; Michigan; Nebraska 2, New Jersey 4; New York 7; Ohio 2, Pennsylvania 3; Oklahoma 1; Washington 2; West Virginia 2; Wisconsin 1, Montana. The doubtful districts now Democratic are Indiana 5; Maryland 1; Missouri 2, New York 1, Tennessee 1, Virginia 1, Oklahoma 1.

Some of these districts will be affected by local conditions, but the greater number of them will feel the influence of the general drift of political sentiment. Those classified as independent Republicans are generally those known as insurgents or progressives, but they are Republicans and expect to be counted as such in the membership of the House. There are 21 of these put down as certain of election, and they are included in the sure Republican districts.

CAN NEITHER SMOKE NOR CHEW
So Miners in the Arctic Have Learned to Use Tobacco in Another Way.

"I can match the story you are telling of the checker women in North Carolina who use snuff by spreading it over the gums with a chewed stick," said the man from Alaska to the Southern correspondent, "by telling how miners and soldiers in Alaska used tobacco in the arctic or arctic their snuff boxes in place of taking it as a chew or smoke."
"When the wind is blowing 30 miles an hour and the temperature is 40 below it is like cold, as they say out West. It is a hard used tobacco in the ordinary way, out of doors during such weather and got his lips wet through smoking a pipe or chewing tobacco he was apt to get into trouble.
First thing he knew he'd have his lips cracked and they would be raw all winter long."

The reporters stationed at the military posts in Alaska found that if they tied a tobacco leaf in their arm-pits previous to undressing they would become very sick and could give the post surgeon for hospital care and a detail work they wanted to avoid.
"The men up there learned something of it and found that the tobacco could be satisfied by binding a smoky of the leaf either in the arm-pit or against the solar plexus. This avoided broken and bleeding during the winter and they were prevented from smoking indoors as well if they wanted to. It was the outdoor smoking or chewing that made all the trouble I have ever heard of any one of these fellows becoming ill from using tobacco in this fashion, either "No," he didn't tried it," said the Alaskan, "but I do know that the habit of every common man up there is to chew a little among men who spend their lives in the open it is the surest way to use tobacco in arctic life."

There were three cases before the Recorder's court all colored.
John Jackson charged with assault with a deadly weapon was adjudged not guilty.
Archie Gray and Walter Malone were both charged with obtaining goods upon the promise to work. The Supreme court having decided the section of the law under which Lis-day was held unconstitutional, the case of Gray was dismissed and that of Malone continued, the prosecution proposing to bring a charge under another section. Lindsey was also prosecuted.

THE UTILITY OF THE DOG.
The Best Beloved in Edgecombe is A New Rule.

If anything is dear to the hearts of the people of this county it is a dog, no matter how useless, how trifling, how insignificant or even how disagreeable to a neighbor.
The canine reputation for killing sheep has been so long established that few sheep are raised in the county. That it would kill chickens and other fowls and suck their eggs has also been conceded a quality in which our dogs were proficient.

We have now to chronicle a penchant of his countenance that must also enter him in a larger degree to the citizenship of the county.
Thanks to the dogs Jim Pittman on the King farm is 19 shorn less, killed and more or less eaten by dogs. For a time Mr. Pittman would miss his shorn, but could not account for their disappearance. After much watching he found his herd chased by dogs; but having no gun he was helpless for that time.

One day last week he had his gun and found the dogs just entering a shoot. A well aimed shot brought one down, the other three ran off.
He is still carrying his gun and looking out for the dogs, and the article is published so that a peace warrior or some legal paper may be served on him to help him in his murderous intent.
