THE DARK GETHSEMANE HOUR
Matthew 26:36-40—November 20
"The Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners."

AFTER the Master and his disciples, as Jews, had celebrated the Passover Supper and after he had subsequently instituted the Memorial of his death with the bread and the cup, and after Jesus had gone out to betray him, Jesus and the remaining eleven left the upper room in Jerusalem, crossed the city to the gate and thence crossed the Valley of Kedron and ascended the sloping side of Mt. Olivet toward the Garden of Gethsemane. The word Gethsemane signifies oil-press. Tradition has it that this Garden belonged to the family of which the Apostles John and James were members, and that for this reason the Lord and his disciples were privileged to feel themselves at home there. St. Mark, the writer of one of the Gospels, but not one of the Apostles, is credited with having been a member of the same family. One of the accounts of the arrest of the Master tells that amongst those who followed after him was a young man wrapped with a sheet and who fled naked when some members of the band attempted to lay hold of him. That young man, tradition says, years afterwards was known as St. Mark.

The Journey to Gethsemane

This was the most memorable night of the Master's experience. He knew perfectly the nature of every act of the Passover. He knew that he was the Lamb of God, antitypically, whose death was to be accomplished on the following day by crucifixion. Yet his thoughts were for his dear disciples. He must give them final words of encouragement and instruction. And so he did. Three chapters of St. John's Gospel record the incidents of the intervening time between the leaving of the upper room and the arriving at Gethsemane, the place of the oil-press. "And Jesus also, who betrayed him, knew the place, for Jesus oftentimes resorted thither with his disciples" (John vii. 3). In St. John xiv the Master told his disciples about the place he would go to prepare for them, but that he would send the Spirit of Truth to be their Comforter and it would show them things to come. In the fifteenth chapter he gave them the parable of the Vine and the Branches and assured them that no longer should they be servants, but friends. "For all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you." In the sixteenth chapter he explained to them that persecutions must be expected, if they would share his sufferings and be prepared to share his glory. "A little while and they would not see him; then again a little while, and they would see him. The entire period of his absence, from the Divine standpoint, as compared to eternity, would be but a little while. Then, by virtue of the resurrection "change," they would see him, because made like him. "In the world ye shall have tribulation; but he of good cheer; I have overcome the world."

"These things I have given unto you that in me ye might have peace." In the 17th chapter is recorded his wonderful prayer to the Father on behalf of his followers—not for the Apostles only, but for all those also who would believe on him through their word.

In the Garden of Gethsemane, then, discarding their robes, the Garden, or olive-yard, where the press for extracting the oil from the olives was located. Somewhere near the entrance eight of the disciples were ordered to remain watching while Jesus, with the specially beloved Peter, James and John, went a little further. And then, realizing the impossibility of even his dearest friends appreciating his sorrowful condition, he went still further alone to speak to the Father. The disciples, perplexed, as attested by the things that they had heard from his lips, did not comprehend the true situation. They were faintly thoughtful that there must still be something parabolic in his utterances. They would indeed watch with him, but they were weary and sank into slumber. The spirit was willing, but the flesh was weak.

If some have queried why the Master preferred to be alone in prayer so frequently, the answer is, "I have trodden the wine-press alone; and of the people there was none with me" (Isaiah lxxxi. 1). His disciples and followers loved him dearly. Still he was alone, because he alone had been begotten of the Holy Spirit. His followers could not feel so blessed nor be spirit-begotten until after his sacrifice had been finished. His presence of God for them to apply his merit imputed to them, to permit them to join with him sacerdotally in the sufferings of this present time, that they might share with him also in the glories to follow.

St. Peter, referring to the foregoing experience of our Lord, declares that he offered up strong crying and tears unto him that was able to save him from death and was heard in respect to that which he feared. Why did he fear? Do not all humanity face death and some with great courage and some with bravado? Ah, there is a vast difference between the Master's standpoint and ours as respects death. We were born dying. We never knew perfect life. We have never known that there is no escape from death.

IN THE DAYS OF HIS PASSION HE WAS MADE TO SWEAT BLOOD AND WATER

COULD HE NOT WATCH WITH ME ONE HOUR—WATCH AND PRAY, LEAVE YOUR BURDEN UPON ME.

BRING IN SAMPLES.

Farmers as Well as The Boys Urged To Do So.

Every boy in the corn growing country is expected to bring in samples of his crop, not less than a dozen ears though twice that number is preferred.

All farmers are invited to bring samples. For one of the subjects to be discussed at the institute will be seed selection by experts.

The importance of making these discussions more intelligent and interesting by having the actual corn at hand should be evident.

Farmers try to have all samples here by 10:30 o'clock and sooner if possible, for the institute begins at 11 o'clock.

For boys and men in the courthouse and for the ladies in the opera house.

Damage To The Court House.

At street reports are true the damage to the court house by the recent fire may lead to litigation.

The insurance company so the report goes sent a man here from Wilson who estimated the damage at 77,800 and said that he would take the job to put the building in a good shape as it was before.

Probably in patching the cost would not exceed this amount but this would not put the building in as good shape as it was before.

The plastering in the jury room, the commissioners room, and in the room of the Justice of Peace and Board of Education is wet and fallen, the paint is discolored.

There is here in the roof of the how much of this is undecided is not known. Now it is known how much of the rafters will have to be replaced, for all burst stuff should come out.

Election Aftermath.

Don Gilliam of blessed memory and Democratic triumph set the example of disbanding the members of the Board of County Commissioners. At that time there was no provision to even pay those for bringing in the voters, so broad-minded Don Gilliam who appreciated the work that the Commission did, "take dinner with me," they did.

John Battle and other Chairman followed and now it has been the custom so that W. O. Howard. Thus day did the same and did it most graciously.

grate. Rather it was pride. He had thought to be associated with the Master in an earthly throne. He had set his faith upon this expectation. Now that same Master explained more fully that the throne was not yet set in sight; that it belongs to an age to follow this, and was to be given only to those who should prove themselves loyal and faithful unto death. In the mind of Jesus the matter took not the wisest and best way. Holding the Great Teacher in contempt, the dejected one probably intended that the delivery would be merely a temporary one—a lesson to the Master not to talk that way, not to carry matters too far—an incentive to him, compelling him to exert his power for the assistance of those who sought his life and then, in exalting himself, make good to his disciples the share in the Kingdom which he had promised or, failing of this, to wreck the entire project. Alas, the love of power, the love of power put up and make matters worse, they became intoxicated with ambition. How necessary that all the Lord's followers remember the message. "He that humbly himself shall be exalted and he that exalteth himself shall be abased." Humble yourselves, therefore, under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time" (1 Peter v. 6).

DEMOCRATIC REVOLUTION.
The Voters by Preponderant Majority Declared for Democracy.
There was Tuesday a voteable total score for the Democracy through out the country. Influential northern states, New York, New Jersey, Mass.achusetts, Connecticut, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois declared unambiguously for the Democrats, not only for the State but also on the legislative branch except the amendments and connection. The Democrats will gain at least six Federal senators and possibly more.
The House of Representatives will be Democratic with a majority of 30. The State Democracy has strengthened its hold on the voters. A solid Democracy is expected in Oregon, a gain of three. The majority for the State there will approximate 50,000.
County.
The vote in the county was light, the campaign was without excitement and with a fore gone conclusion such a result was to be expected. Chairman Howard found it no hill work to get the voters out. Taking the situation as it was in this county he is to be congratulated upon what he has accomplished.
The republican vote in this county has fallen off more than half from the last election. This is due to two causes. Some who voted with that party two years ago were dissatisfied with the Democratic party, chiefly because of prohibition. In addition to this the personal of the Democratic local ticket was such that the real republican had no hope of any gain.
Official County Vote.
The following is the official vote on state ticket by township. It so happens that the head of both Democratic and Republican tickets were headed by Wood.

Keeping Turnips And Onions.
Turnips may be stored about the same as sweet potatoes. The tops should be cut off. When they are covered with mud they will keep very well, but if they get very warm will start to grow and become gritty, rendering them undesirable for table use. This crop may be kept "boxed up" out of doors if there is not room in the cellar. To do this successfully pile them upon some dry substance like straw and cover over with corn stalks and straw, put on a tight covering of earth. As the season gets colder more dirt may be added to keep out the frost.

In storing cabbages after having kept them through the fall in a cool dry place, I like to put them in barrels or small boxes where they will not freeze. It is true that an onion may be kept frozen, if not disturbed but repeated freezing and thawing, such as our changeable weather is sure to cause will spoil them. Onions keep best when dry and at uniform temperature of very low degree, say between 35 and 40 degrees.— M. Latham in British, Progressive Farmer and Gazette.
