A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues" is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disordered liver.

THIS IS A FACT which may be demonstrated by trying a course of

Tutt's Pills

They control and regulate the LIVER. They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elasticity to the body.

THE SOUTHERNER'S SATURDAY SERMON

(By Rev. Bertram E. Brown.)
"As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness." Psalm 17:15.

The Psalmist says here that he will be satisfied when he wakes up in glory and sees God face to face. That is the same as if he said that he would not be satisfied till he did see God in glory.

There is no such thing as perfect satisfaction to be obtained by any human being in this world. No man is likely to dispute that assertion, for it is one of the most obvious truths of human life. It is expressed equally in such doggerel verse as this—
"As a rule man's a fool;
When it's hot he wants it cool,
When it's cool he wants it hot;
Always wanting what is not,
Never liking what he's got—"
as in the profound saying of St. Augustine, "God made us for Himself, so our souls must be unquiet till we go back to Him."

That last sentence gives the reason of man's perpetual dissatisfaction in this world. This fact is that we are out of place here below. We belong elsewhere, and we can no more be satisfied here than a fish can be satisfied out of water or an eagle be satisfied in a cage. We are being made in God's image forced to live in the midst of things unlike God; we are immortal creatures living in a world of perishing matter; we were made good, and we are obliged to live where we are stained and soiled with evil. We were made to possess infinity, and no amount of finite things can ever satisfy our craving for possession. Give a man the United States, and he would still want Alaska for a summer garden; give him the earth, and he would still want the moon for an ice-box; give him all the universe and he would not be satisfied till he found God and His Heaven too.

The rest of Heaven, the end of sorrow, which God promises to all who are saved by His mercy through Jesus Christ, is merely the soul getting at last its infinite, eternal world to satisfy its infinite, eternal longing.

Now, there is such a thing promised Christian men as peace here in this life. Jesus promises rest to all weary and heavy laden people who come to Him, and there is no promise of Him that He does not immediately fulfill for all who do their required part. He does give rest to every true follower of His, and every Christian knows the meaning of that rest.

But the Peace of God does not mean satisfaction—not at all. A Christian has peace in his heart but complete satisfaction is as far off from him as from the sinner. That has been a source of bitter disappointment to many young Christians. They were led to expect perfect happiness in the Lord, when they did not get it, feared that they were not truly redeemed in Christ at all. But they should not be discouraged at not feeling satisfied, for that belongs to a Christian only in the life beyond the grave.

A Christian has many dissatisfactions that the wicked man has not. He is never satisfied with what good he does, but wishes always that it was purer and brighter than it is. He is never satisfied because he sees so many poor brethren of his dying in their sins far off from God. A sinner is not troubled by any of these things at all, so in a certain sense a Christian lacks the satisfaction that a sinner has. This Christian dissatisfaction however, is a divine, a blessed trouble. It is noble to be troubled because you are not as good as you ought to be—it is blessed to long always for stronger faith—it is Christlike to be unhappy because of sins and sorrows of your fellow man. Jesus wept over Jerusalem, dying in its sins, and no true follower of His can help grieving too as he looks on the poor wicked men who will not come to their Savior.

But a Christian has peace because his heart is no longer at war with God. He knows that he has surrendered to God, and that God forgives his sins, and hears his prayers and accepts his labor for Him, and cares for him and deals with him in the wisest and most loving way. That certainty, that blessed assurance, is the Christian's peace.

Here is a difference between one who has accepted Christ and one who goes on in sin—
A Christian is dissatisfied with himself but satisfied with his Savior—
A sinner is satisfied with himself, but dissatisfied with God and the way God treats him.

To be satisfied with oneself in death, and to be dissatisfied with God as misery.

To be dissatisfied with oneself urges one to find a better way, and to be satisfied with the Savior is blessed peace and rest.

"I dare not choose my lot;
I would not if I might;
Choose? Thou for me, my God:
So shall I walk upright.
Take Thou my cup and it,
With joy or sorrow fill,
As best to Thee may seem;
Choose Thou my good and ill."

SHAME OF EASY DIVORCE.

Preacher Sees Reversion To Custom Of Ancient Rome.

The Rev. Frederick Lynch in the Pilgrim Church, Madison avenue and 121st street, last evening spoke on the subject of "Divorce and Free Love." He said in part:
"Every time the anarchists or some well known writer advocates free love as the proper and permanent condition of society, a terrible hue and cry arises from all the decent people of the land; yet, in the present tremendous growth of his divorce habit, is not the nation rushing toward it about as fast as it could come by popular consent?"

"For in the long run, where is the real difference between divorce being granted for the mere saking (as it is grossly called) today, and men and women living together without marriage? Where is the difference between a marriage that may be entered into for only a year or so (as many marriages are entered upon today) and the French union libre?"

"Surely these thoughts must come to every serious man today as he watches the rapid increase of divorce and the perfect ease with which it can be obtained. As he sees one man divorcing one woman after another as the whim seizes him, he must often wonder if we are not reverting to that condition in ancient Rome. Mosaic changes his wife nearly every year. Some men in New York will soon be doing that if the mad race goes on."

"When he sees a woman marrying her fourth husband—the others all living—he wonders if some of our women will not soon be emulating the Roman woman Martia speaks of, who had already arrived at her tenth husband—perhaps even the woman St. Jerome mentions who was married to her twenty-third husband, she herself being twenty-first wife? Why not, if divorce can be had for the mere asking and a six months vacation from marriage at Rome?"

"And even this six months need not interfere with the state of marriage, for not long ago a New York man—I will not mention his name, although it was in all the papers—asked his wife to get a divorce from him that he might marry his affinity. She went West, and on the day the divorce was granted he married his affinity, but at that same time a physician with whom his wife had become acquainted while in 'residence' for her divorce, divorced his wife to marry this woman."

"It is not always actresses or opera singers. They feel no shame and society does not. When three years ago a great multi-millionaire divorced his good wife, who had shared his poverty and helped him make his fortune, to marry an actress, did New York ostracize him? No. They mingle in the best (God save the mark) society in New York and receive their friends in their French castles."

"I see nothing but free love if the increase of the ratio of divorces to marriage goes on in the next 30 years as it has in the last 30. Divorce at present is increasing two and a half times as fast as our population. One can see the incredible increase in 20 years when he remembers that in 1880 the percentage was only 38 per 100,000 population whereas in 1900 it was 75."

CORN GROWING BOYS

The Institutes For Boys, Women and Men, a Symposium of Timely Topics.

The Southerner's Boys corn growing contest was a success, gauged within by attendance or better by exhibits and results.

Those who saw the corn display last spring when a seed selected institute was held, were impressed with the superiority of the corn display by our boys. Each boy did not have a truck but there was a larger exhibit than were seen when the land was fallow. Even the gentlemen experts sent out by the Federal and State Departments of Agriculture were impressed in their commendation of exhibits.

Twenty three boys of the county entered the contest and the following made reports with the following results:

Floyd Turnage of No. 9 township 115 bushels on one acre.
Elias Crisp of same township, 113.63 bushels.
J. N. Vick, No. 3 township 112.5 bushels

To these will be awarded the prizes for the first, second and third best yield in the county.

The others competing with their yield in bushels were:
L. H. Hobgood, Speed, 88.00
J. H. Johnson, Speed, 82.52
David H. Andrews, Speed, 77.48
William Cherry Speed, 70.00
Paul Stewart, Battleboro, 65.17
Marriott Britt Tarboro, 58.50
Ronald Fly Tarboro, 58.50
Lee Cummings Tarboro, 49.40
R. Ralph Braker, Rocky Mount 43.1
Robt. S. Harper, Whitakers, 42.96
Norman Moore Whitakers, 42.96
Walter Thomas Vick, Battleboro, 39.65
Lawrence Bullock Battleboro, 38.75
Robt. V. Knight Tarboro, 38.40

Prizes were offered also in township in Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 and 7 and these will be announced tomorrow as soon as it can be ascertained those competing in the township.

The boys taking part in the contest are a manly, intelligent looking set, and when asked by Dr. Stetson what variety of corn planted they promptly answered showing that they know what they were doing. They were good looking too, as the Southerner will prove to its readers a little later.

Ladies Do Their Part.
When the institute for men and boys adjourned for dinner there was an invitation for the boys to come up to the town hall where the Daughters of the Confederacy and the members of the Civic League had prepared a luncheon for them and all the visiting ladies.

The institute, one for the ladies at the opera house which the Aldermen had given. This institute was presided over by Mrs. J. L. Briggs who did so charmingly in presenting the speakers, Mrs. W. R. Hutt on "Diseases," Dr. W. Rankin on "The Problem of Public Health" and Mrs. McKimmon on Bread Making. Mrs. Hutt then followed on "Flies."

The talks of all were interesting and instructive. Both Mrs. Hutt and Mrs. McKimmon are women of pleasing presence and still more delightful in talk for they know their subjects and have the language to present them.

Dr. Rankin is also a fluent talker and evidenced that he knew what he was talking about and that he spoke to better conditions and not on a theory.

Among the Men and Boys.
At the court house Prof. PHELAN County Superintendent of Education presided.

He made a gem of a little talk in calling the meeting to order and then introducing Zeno Moore, assigned to the demonstration work in this county. Mr. Moore told the audience that agriculture was just beginning to be understood, that as this was appreciated there were more home comforts on the farm and greater profits.

To enable C. R. Hudson to meet an engagement elsewhere tomorrow, this gentleman took the place of I. O. Shamb. Mr. Hudson is special agent of the Federal Department of Agriculture and told the boys and men too how to increase the corn crop.

Gray bearded farmers were among his audience, but he made himself not only understood by them but comprehended by the boys.

He is an easy and graceful talker and so is T. B. Parker who had charge of the institute. He talked to boys in a way that pleased and held their attention. He made many good by saying that the boy to come in with 19 or eleven barrels to the acre.

HOW LANE SAW WASHINGTON

Although Eighty-Six Virginia Makes Satisfactory Explanation.

In Washington lives John Lane a descendant on his father's side of an old Virginia family and on his mother's side of an old New England family. Mr. Lane is eighty-six years of age. For some years he has liked to puzzle people whom he met by telling them that he was the only living person who ever saw George Washington. Now as Washington died in 1799 and as Mr. Lane is only eighty-six years old it can be understood that persons to whom the statement of having seen George Washington was made were naturally incredulous and looked on their informant as either being something of a joker or as being something which they did not care to mention when facing him.

When the old Virginia has excited curiosity or incredulity to the highest pitch he will make explanations. When he was a boy about ten years old he was standing on the road in Georgetown when a Mount Vernon stage coach passed. The driver knew the boy, and asked him if he wanted a ride. He did; and he climbed up and took his seat beside the driver, and struck them all the way to Mount Vernon. It happened that at the time of their arrival the body of Washington was being moved from the old tomb to the new one, and in order to make sure that the ghosts who had entered the sepulcher some time before had not disturbed the remains of the Father of His Country, the coffin was opened and the boy, Lane, was lifted up to look upon the face of the "First American." So it is that today Mr. Lane can say truthfully that he is the only living person who ever saw George Washington. Everybody else who was present at the removal of the remains died long ago.

There's a cure against getting old, an excellent and thorough one. There is the best that can be had under the existing circumstances. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea—that's it. Begin to-night.—Edgecombe Drug Company.
