

1c The Tryon Daily Bulletin 1c

Vol. 2. TRYON, N. C., MONDAY, MARCH 11, 1929. No. 34

Loses Leg Trying To Ride Fast Moving Freight Train

Thad Pace, 19 year old young man of Saluda, tried to hop a freight train as it passed Bird Mountain Saturday night about 7 o'clock. He slipped and his left leg fell under the wheel of the engine tender and was crushed just above the ankle. The leg was later amputated at the hospital. The young man is the son of D. D. Pace.

Kidnapped Negro Girl Baby Recovered by Local Officers

Saturday about noon at Lyman S. C. one Pearl Williams, negress of Forest City, drove up in a new Ford and showed interest in two months old baby of Henry Gilmore, colored. She asked Gilmore's wife to let her take the child's picture. Consent given, Williams woman sent the mother for her husband. In the meantime the Williams woman drives off with the baby and meets her own husband in Tryon who had come from Forest City. They spent the night at Ed Mitchell's near Columbus. Meanwhile South Carolina law gets busy and notifies local officers. Chief Wilson and Constable J. M. Early prove real Sherlocks and locate the negro at Mitchell's house where she was arrested this morning about one o'clock and carried to Spartanburg jail. Her husband went with her as an accomplice.

TB Hospital Site Sought Here

Tryon's healthful climate brought a party of physicians and business men here last week looking for a site for a private tubercular sanitarium, according to information received by the Bulletin.

The Bulletin Prints Stationery