Fla. Gov. Kills Race Bill

The Horse Racing Bill passed by the Florida legislature was vetoed by Gov. Carleton who said he disapproved of the bill because he considered it "unsound and unwise from an economic, political and moral standpoint to commit the State to a partnership in legalized gambling in any form."

Expensive Legislature

The legislature just adjourned cost the state $224,782.99, almost a fourth million dollars. Was it worth it? Wouldn't a commission of 12 men serve just as well.
