Weather News

Intense cold, floods and storms beset the nation Wednesday as winter launched its most bitter assault of the year.

Minnesota temperature records—some of them extending back 50 years—were topped by a frigid wave that drove the mercury down to 51 below at Eveleth. Hundreds of families were marooned in the flood stricken districts of Mississippi and Tennessee. Rivers roared out of their banks in western Washington, sending scores to places of safety and tying up transportation.

Unusual cold reached across the continent from the Arctic circle to the Gulf of Mexico. Damage running into hundreds of thousands of dollars was wrought. New names were added to the roster of more than 70 fatalities.

Communication lines in Minnesota were snapped, work on outside was halted, schools in many parts of the state were closed. Eveleth, with its —51 reading, was the coldest point in the coldest state. The —38 registered at Duluth set a 50-year record for the date.
