P.-T. A. TO HEAR COLLEGE DEAN

The Tryon Parent-Teacher association will enjoy one of the most interesting programs of the year Monday afternoon, when Miss Ione Dunn, dean of Asheville Normal and Teachers' college, will address the group on "Education Today and Yesterday." The Man from Yonder

BLACK EYE—Members of the General Assembly often get in bad with the home-folks by published accounts of short session of the House and Senate. Newspapers fail to record the hours that these same members spend in committee meetings ironing out the knots in legislation in order to avoid lengthy debate in general sessions. Many legislators are members of half-dozen or more committees and spend long hours going over bills in order that time may be saved when the general session convenes.

Jackson's Store Opens Saturday

Jackson's Store will move into new quarters Saturday and will close their temporary store Friday noon in order to devote the afternoon to making the change. The new quarters have been attractively arranged with modern shelves, counters, and electric fixtures. An advertisement in this week's Polk County News invites the public to the opening on Saturday and offers a number of specials.

To Everybody

We want you to be our honor guest at the basketball games tonight at 7:30 at the local high school gymnasium. In order to see just what we are doing we are giving this night to you absolutely free of admission and urge that you come out and enjoy yourself at our expense. There are four teams in this league and all of us are local young men and boys engaged in some manner of industry either for ourselves or someone else. There are no loafers on the teams, nor is any player a member of some other basketball team. The purpose of the league is to reach the ones that are interested in the sport and don't have a chance to play on some other organized team. Everybody is invited to be there regardless of where you live or what you do.

The Industrials will play the Firemen in basketball tonight at 7:30 at the gymnasium. Following their game the Merchants and Soumerco-Lynn will play.
