Cold Wave Spreads To Far South

(V) A cold wave moved across the midcontinent yesterday (Tuesday) from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

Temperatures dropped to 28 below zero at Bemidji, Minn., —18 at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Boone, Iowa, —17 at Virginia, Minn., —8 at Devils Lake, N. D., and —3 at Colby Kans.

Clearing skies favored crews who attacked snow blockades on highways in Minnesota and other northern states. Eighty-five bus passengers, marooned between Blue Mound and Mt. Horeb, Wis., reached Madison by train. Freight trains—one of them had been imprisoned more than 24 hours in a ten-foot drift—resumed normal schedules in snowbound sections of Nebraska.

(O) A freak blizzard swept Chicago, impeding traffic, forcing the mercury down to 10 below zero, and increasing the city's storm death toll to seven. Icy roads made travel hazardous in northern Illinois.

Freezing weather descended upon Arkansas and Mississippi and was expected to extend to the Gulf coast overnight.

Dr. Snyder Coming

Dr. Henry Nelson Snyder of Wofford college will address the Lanier club at its regular meeting on March 7. Dr. Snyder is a favorite speaker in Tryon. He will speak this time on "Southern Culture—What Does It Mean?"

Boy Scout Cabin To Be Opened Today

The beautiful log cabin at Harmon Field just completed as a home for the Tryon Boy Scouts will be formally turned over to the County Boy Scout Committee at 5:30 this afternoon by C. J. Lynch, the architect, contractor and originator of this most unusual, attractive cabin which will not only bring joy to the hearts of many boys now and in time to come, but will also be an added asset to all who enjoy Harmon Field activities.

The Asheville Citizen carried a picture of the cabin in today's issue. Octagonal floor and walls with a cone shaped roof slightly suggesting an Indian tepee, the hut is an attractive feature, but more than that it is home-like with portable bunks and seats, a large rock fire-place radiating cheerfulness upon a spacious circular shaped room lighted in the center with electric lights hanging from an old wagon wheel under which games and Scoutcraft will be enjoyed. The cabin will serve as a treasure house of Scout property and a place for many overnight visits. An adjoining annex with hot water heater, shower bath and toilet give the sanitary requirements. The cabin is the work of many hands and interests and for that reason will be treasured in years to come. There is built in the cabin part of the community. Some gave money, some material, some labor. Many of the donors are unknown, but their spirit is in the cabin and adds to its value in imparting to young boys to carry on and do likewise when their time comes.
