

Snow Blanket Covers Big Area In Middle West

Kansas City, March 6. — The drought-harassed western farmer counted some gain in a six to eight inch snow blanket left behind by the March lion as he roared eastward tonight. But it was not early enough.

The storm passed up the hard hit wheat region of western Kansas to drop a traffic-stalling snow in the central sector. Marysville, Kans., had seven inches. McCook, Neb., had eight.

The heavy snow in Wyoming and Montana fell in the mountains. Highways of Minnesota and Wisconsin were ice-sheeted. North Dakota's snow was the heaviest of the winter.

At many points, snow covered areas only recently plagued by blinding dust storms. A cold rain struck Missouri. Clearing weather was reported in the Rocky mountain region and in the southwest. —Asheville Citizen.
