

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

Vol. 8 TRYON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1935 Est. 1-31-23

Noted Portrait Artist Here

Donald Silvette, a portrait painter of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Silvette have taken the J. Foster Searles cottage here for the spring season. He is a son of Ellis M. Silvette, portrait painter, whose series of portraits of Thos. A. Edison are internationally known and were the inventor's favorite likenesses. David Silvette began studying with his father, continued with Ceilia Beaux in New York and with Charles Hawthorne in Massachusetts.

At age of 20 he won $1,000 competition for group portrait to be placed in Virginia state capital.

Won portrait prize first annual exhibition Richmond Academy of Arts. Won popular prize on same exhibition. One man exhibition at A. A. Anderson Gallery of Art.

Portraits exhibited in Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. One man exhibition at Brooklyn Museum of Arts and Sciences, New York. Exhibited Allied Artists, New York. Made member of Portrait Painters Gallery—a select exhibition groups of national portrait painters.

Awarded Corcoran Art Gallery Bronze Medal and $1,000. W. A. Clark Award at Corcoran Biennial Exhibition of American Paintings.

Portrait of "Thornton Nye of Wytheville" purchased by Corcoran Art Gallery for its permanent collection.

Invited as one of 100 selected American painters to make up American section of Carnegie International Exhibition of Paintings. Exhibited one man show,

—Continued on Back Page—

Mrs. Coolidge Is Honor Guest

Atlanta, March 19.—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, former first lady of the land, was honor guest at a dinner party here last night, coming to Atlanta from Tryon, N. C., for an overnight visit.

Mrs. Coolidge arrived yesterday with Mrs. William F. Pearson of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Florence Bannard Adams of Northampton, Mass. Mrs. Pearson is the mother of Mrs. William S. Turner, whose husband is canon of St. Philip's Episcopal church here. Canon and Mrs. Turner gave the dinner for Mrs. Coolidge.—Spartanburg Herald.

Good Citizenship

Jimmie Fain, member of the staff of the Hendersonville Times-News, addressed the Tryon school this morning at 10:30 on Good Citizenship. Mr. Fain said that there were a few good citizens and a few bad citizens, but that the majority of the citizens were indifferent and were content to let the politicians run things so long as they didn't bother the indifferent citizens who expected more from the government than they were willing to give. The speaker for next Wednesday will be attorney B. T. Jones, Jr., of Forest City, past president of the Forest City Kiwanis club. These talks on Good Citizenship are sponsored by the Tryon Kiwanis club under the direction of attorney M. R. McCown.