To Create Jobs

Washington, April 23.—Setting up the machinery through which will be fed all plans for creating jobs out of the four billion dollar work relief fund, President Roosevelt today moved a step nearer the big-spending stage of his program.

The White House, in a four hundred word statement, delegated the task of passing on all plans to Frank C. Walker, a New York lawyer who for years has been a close friend of the President.

To handle the job, Walker tomorrow will return to the post he formerly held as head of the national emergency council. A new division of the council was set up to deal with the plans Donald R. Richberg who has been executive director of the council since Walker left a few months ago, will devote his full time to directing NRA.—Asheville Citizen.
