Tennis Results

J. Lee Lavendar defeated Dudley C. Smith in the Tryon Tennis Association tournament the other day and left only four players in the tournament. Lavendar will now play Waverly Hester and Fred McLaughlin will play Julian Hester.

Edith Preston Will Teach at Columbus

Miss Edith Preston of Tryon, who is now director of physical education at Erskine college, and one of the best basketball and tennis players in this section, has been elected to teach in the grammar grades of the Stearns school at Columbus where she will also coach the girls' basketball team.

Wines In North Carolina

Now that the making of wine has been legalized in North Carolina the Fayetteville Observer thinks that a survey is in order to determine the possibilities of scuppernong grape production in that part of the State

Tryon wines were achieving quite a reputation before prohibition put a stop to their manufacture. It will be interesting to see whether this manufacture is now revived.—Asheville Citizen.

Visit to Museum Is Postponed

The pilgrimage to the Colburn Museum in Asheville has been postponed until Tuesday afternoon on account of the weather. Anyone desiring to visit this most interesting collection of rare Indian relics, minerals and gems of Western North Carolina should make reservations with Mrs. G. L. Canfield at once. The entire trip will cost only $1.50.
