TRAIN WRECKS AT MELROSE

<sup>Sch</sup>
<sup>day</sup> A freight train jumped the track near Melrose a few miles west of Tryon on Monday at about 7 p. m. Seven coal cars loaded with coal were thrown off and track was torn up for about half a mile. Men worked all night and repaired the track in time for the early morning passenger train to pass over it about 8 o'clock. A broken flange was said to have been the cause of derailing the train.
