Last Indian Pageant On Wednesday Night

The last Indian Pageant to be held this season at the Piedmont Boy Scout camp will be held on Wednesday evening instead of Thursday, according to Scout Executive R. M. Schiele. The pageant will be under the direction of Chief Blue Sky Eagle, a full blood Indian and authority on Indian life. The public is invited to see this beautiful pageant which has been one of the chief attractions at the Scout camp this year. This is your last opportunity.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 1.

Hello Folks:—

Arrived in Boise last night. Left Pocatello, Idaho yesterday morning at 10:30. Picked up Mr. Leo Bell, a World War veteran, who was going to Boise. He was very friendly, and kept me good company all the way. Stopped in Twin Falls to see M. C. Ballenger, but only got to see his mother and brothers and sisters. I'm still averaging 40 miles per gallon of gas. Had some trouble with my magneto in Pocatello. Had my first puncture at Twin Falls. I am getting along just fine and will make Portland in 2 more days. It is only 474 more miles. I am wanting to make Pendleton, Oregon, tonight and get into Portland tomorrow afternoon. Tell everybody I'll write about the scenery and experiences and have it in The Polk County News when I get there.
