Turner Family Is Home From China

New York, Aug. 31.—Bringing vivid tales of wild Chinese communists who combine practical banditry with their political aspirations, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Turner and their two sons, Eugene A. Turner, Jr., and Frank, all formerly of Wake Forest, N. C., are resting here for several days at the Prince George hotel before proceeding to Tryon, N. C.

Mr. Turner, who has been a Y. M. C. A. secretary in Nanchang, Kiangsi province, for the last 22 years, was enthusiastic about China and its people, but he agreed that there was true meaning in the song about "Crying for the Carolines." The last time the family visited home was seven and a half years ago.

"The work I am engaged in," Mr. Turner said, "is the rehabilitation of what was once the most communist-infested region in China. It took forceful struggle and much bloodshed to oust the fierce bandit-like tribes who left misery and devastation in their wake."

The Turners arrived here yesterday on the North German Lloyd express liner Bremen. Mr. and Mrs. Turner will return to the Orient after their stay in the United States. Eugene, Jr., will remain to attend the University of North Carolina, and Frank will go to Mars Hill junior college.—Hendersonville Times-News.
