Unmasked Bandits Rob Mars Hill Bank

Mars Hill, Sept. 10.—Six unmasked bandits sprayed the business buildings along the main street of this college town this afternoon with sub-machine gun fire and shot down a 17-year-old college girl as they fled in an automobile after holding up and robbing the Mars Hill branch of the Citizens Bank of Marshall. They escaped with approximately $1,100.

Pretty Dorothy Sanderlin, 17-year-old freshman at Mars Hill college, stepped into the path of a bullet from the machine gun of the six bandits who robbed the bank at Mars Hill yesterday and last night her condition was "very serious" at Aston Park hospital here. Her father, W. T. Sanderlin, prominent New Bern lumberman, said attending physicians told him she was suffering from a wound from a bullet which entered her stomach, ranged slightly downward and lodged in the muscles of her abdomen.—Asheville Citizen.
