

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

Vol. 8 TRYON, N. C., SATURDAY, OCT. 5, 1935 Est. 1-31-28

Tryon Entertainment Plans Approved By Tour Director

Chairman C. J. Lynch of the Local General committee went to Charlotte on Friday to arrange with Coleman W. Roberts, director of the Carolinas Tour, to secure for Tryon a longer stay of the Travel Agency officials when they come here on October 17th. Mr. Lynch received the following letter from Mr. Roberts this morning:

"After I returned from the preliminary tour and began to check our time with the party furnishing the bus, we found that we could not make the speed that we anticipated; however, since talking with you today, we are pushing up our breakfast from 8 to 7 at Asheville and reducing the time from one hour to forty-five minutes from Hendersonville to Tryon and taking fifteen minutes out of Hendersonville time, which will if everything works all right, put us in Tryon not later than 4 o'clock.

"It is very generous of you good Tryon folks to agree to furnish individual cars to transport our party from Chimney Rock to Tryon via Hendersonville. This will add much to the pleasure of all our guests. We will arrange for the bus to go direct to Tryon and transfer the people from the bus to your cars. This will present an excellent opportunity for your local citizens to talk with our guests. If there should be any great delay in our reaching Tryon, we will, of course, take time next morning to show them Tryon, but I am quite sure that we will be there by 4 o'clock.

"Your plan to bring Mr. Carter

—Continued on Page Two—

Rock House Art Gallery's Second Annual Exhibition

Mrs. B. King Couper's second exhibition which opened Friday contains twenty-four portraits and landscapes that have never been shown before in Tryon. Among the local portraits are Mr. Edgar Upton, little Ann Brundage, the artist's daughter—Mrs. J. Bolling Reynolds—as a bride, Allen Jervy, Miss Jeanne Huger, a charming picture in which she is posed as a dancer.

The outstanding out-of-town portraits are pastel head of Miss Grace Hannahan of Charleston, S. C.; an oil portrait of Dr. William Heard Kilpatrick of the Teachers college, New York City. This is a very handsome presentment of the doctor in his academic robe. Another listed is a "portrait" of a man of great dynamic force. Then, the "Sailor Boy" which is reproduced in the New York Times' rotogravure section, is painted in a bold and striking manner.

Tryon-Saluda Defeated Fletcher

By SCHOOL REPORTER

The Tryon-Saluda football team emerged victorious in their first encounter of the season by the score of 7-0 over the strong Fletcher team. Time and again the brilliant playing of the line threw back the visitors when they threatened. Outstanding were Robert Green at end, McGeachy at center and Shields and Kerhulas at tackle.

The three new backfield men

—Continued on Back Page—