Apple Show Winners Were Named Today

A blind man could tell where the apple show was held in Tryon today. The delicious aroma was very evident on Trade street near Slack's Pharmacy. The Tryon Garden club did a wonderful job of decorating the building with evergreens and beautiful autumnal leaves. The apples are as attractive as any to be shown.

Class A—Best three trays of any of the following varieties: Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Stayman, Winesap, and any one of the other variety. (Red Delicious or Stayman does not include the Starking or other red strains of Delicious and Stayman).

The winners are as follows, first, second, and third premiums in order named:

Red Delicious—C. E. Sanders, K. J. Davis, G. H. Hollifield.

Stayman—L. B. Gibson, K. J. Davis, G. H. Hollifield.

Golden Delicious — B. C. von Kahlden.

Any other variety—B. C. von Kahlden, L. B. Gibson, G. H. Hollifield.

Doctors to Meet Here Wednesday

The Tenth District Medical Association of North Carolina will meet in Tryon on Wednesday, October 16, at 2 p. m., at the Parish House with talks by prominent physicians. The session will adjourn at 6:30 from supper at Melrose Lodge. Dr. A. J. Jervey is in charge of the arrangements here.

Costa to Rebuild

Thomas Costa, owner of the Edgewood Inn building which was destroyed by fire on Wednesday evening, stated today that he is making plans now for a bigger, better and more modern hotel with large enough dining room space to accommodate dancing and large parties.

Kiwanis at Landrum

The Tryon Kiwanis club which has been meeting at Edgewood Inn will have to seek temporary quarters until Edgewood Inn is rebuilt. Chairman R. H. Brady of the House Committee stated today that the next meeting would be held in Landrum at the Imperial Hotel at 1 p. m. An interesting meeting of the club was held at Edgewood Inn on Tuesday when C. M. Howes gave an instructive talk on the planting of trees in the proposed forest belt across the United States in the drought stricken area. He did not think the plan practical.

Apple Auction

In order to help defray the expenses of the Polk County Apple Show now being held in Tryon today and Saturday, some of the apples will be auctioned off to the highest bidder on Saturday afternoon at the show room by C. J. Lynch. Mr. Lynch is contributing his services and all who buy apples will treat themselves to the nicest apples grown anywhere and at the same time help encourage the growing of better apples in this county. Sale at 4 p. m.
