

Dr. C. Arthur Lincoln reports that he had a long distance telephone conversation at 1 p. m., today with his daughter, Miss Barbara, who is marooned in the flooded district of Pittsburgh where she is a post graduate student of the University of Pittsburgh and doing case work for the Allegheny Family society. Miss Lincoln stated that all the people in her apartment house are having to cook together over a gas stove. There are no electric lights. They have plenty of food but are short of water—drinking water. Telephone service was restored at noon today and the electric light service was expected to be in operation by Saturday.
