To Close Postoffice Outer Door at Night

Postmaster W. H. Stearns states that he has instructions from Postal authorities to close the outer door at the postoffice every night and thus prevent patrons from getting to their boxes for their mail. This change will take place July 1. The hour of closing has not been definitely decided, but the postmaster states that he will make it as late as permissible. The reason for the change is because persons of a destructive nature mark up the walls and deface government bulletins when the postal officials are out of the building after 6 p. m.
