

Public Welfare Testifies for Him;

Churches, charity, hospitals, Boy Scouts, civic clubs, community sports, country welfare, new business concerns of development and many things promoted for the public welfare have received his personal support in the past and they speak louder than any idle words of promise. They show that his heart is with those things that will help the average man and his family—things that will relieve your suffering, promote the welfare and happiness of you and your children.

F. P. Bacon

FOR STATE SENATOR

Ability and Experience Qualify Him;

An Independent Thinker—

He belongs to no clique; has no axe to grind; needs no job; nor any inducements except the satisfaction of giving faithful service to the office of State Senator.

A Friend to Many in Need—

A record of many years of neighborliness showing his love of humanity and sympathetic interest in even a stranger's welfare make him a true representative of the people who will work for the public good. An understanding man who has risen from the bottom and knows the needs of his fellowman.
