FILLERS

When the editor was a little boy at the gang age, he belonged to a gang that required the showing of your own blood before you could get out of the organization. One usually used a needle or pin to prick himself. Most all the boys had big bad wolf names. Gangs played gangs at various games. This was all brought back to me this morning when two little boys brought in the following news item:

"The Plant Tigers defeated the Southern Twisters in baseball on Sunday afternoon at Harmon Field. Score: Plant Tigers 19; Southern Twisters 11."

Another reminder was brought home when James E. Johnson of Hickory Grove, who writes "Here 'N Yonder" for The Polk County News, asked Elbert Arledge, "Wasn't that a cool breeze this morning about 4:30?" Elbert didn't answer; he couldn't. On my first visit to the country as a little boy I had to go to bed soon after supper, and in a few minutes, it seemed, I was awakened and told to get up. I looked out of the window and saw the moon shining. I didn't know what was the trouble. I was escorted to the dining room where everybody was eating and was notified that it was time to eat. W. P. A. Approves Local Club Project

President B. L. Ballenger of the Tryon Country club stated today that the WPA officials had approved the Country club project submitted to it some time ago and that all that was needed now was for the Town Commissioners to approve the proposition. The Country club is making Tryon attractive to some of the community's wealthiest citizens and will be an asset in bringing more of the same type to Tryon. Just a few of these citizens added to Tryon will more than pay for any expense the town may have to go toward completing the golf course. A few weeks ago three men from Tennessee came to Tryon and wanted to play golf but had to go to Asheville. When the Chicago Tribune wrote about C. H. Conrad moving to Tryon and building a home in Gillette Woods, the paper stated that he would spend much of his time in Asheville where he could play golf. A number of wealthy people have expressed a desire to come to Tryon but have stated that we only had a nine hole golf course and sand greens. Thanks to a live committee the sand greens are giving way to grass greens and we hope the Town Commissioners will see their way to approve the WPA project for enlarging the local course to 18 holes.

The Tryon Kiwanis club will meet on Tuesday at 1 p. m., at Hotel Tryon. The chief feature of the meeting will be a musical program put on by Robert Baldwin and Lefty Flynn.
