Body Recovered At Lake Lanier Basin

The body of a man which Coroner George W. McCoy of Greenville county said had been identified as that of J. Grady Gunter of Spartanburg was found Monday in the northern part of Lake Lanier near Tryon. The body was found floating at the Third basin by L. M. Pearson, Johnny Lyles and Harold Leach of Spartanburg who were on a boating trip around the lake. The body had been in the water four or five days. There was no water in his lungs and it thought that the man had died of a heart stroke and fell into the lake after he had died. Gunter had relatives living near the lake but they had not seen him recently and it is possible that he may have died on way to visit them. Gunter was a former employee of the Southern Railway.
