With the Kaiser

Prof. James Brooks, retired college president and student of world problems gave a very interesting talk at the Tryon Kiwanis club today noon at its meeting at Hotel Tryon. "Hob-nobbing with the Kaiser" was the title of his subject which brought out interesting visits to Berlin and Rome 1900-04 when he saw the Kaiser, Emperor Francis Joseph and King Victor Emanuel at meetings ten years before the World War. The speaker reviewed briefly the many changes in Europe since then and brought up for consideration the present state of affairs all over the world where rapid changes are taking place even in America where revolution can only be prevented by evolution.

Major Arthur L. Smith of Washington, D. C., was present and gave an interesting resume of his military manuevers this summer when his corp of officers constructed a bridge for war test purposes and escaped all accidents except for poison ivy which was so severe that several officers had to go to the hospital and one of a major's eyes was closed.

Carroll P. Rogers reported on the interesting inter-city meeting held last week with the Greenville, S. C., club and also for the Vocational Guidance committee which is sponsoring a program of citizenship at the Tryon Graded school under the direction of Attorney M. R. McCown in co-operation with Supt. W. A. Schilleter. A. I. Gold of Hendersonville was a guest of the club.
