Dr. Chas. G. Sewall Makes Talk On Election Results

Dr. Chas. G. Sewall of Tryon and New England, gave an interesting talk on current problems at the Lanier club meeting on Thursday afternoon at the library assembly room. The chief event was the recent election. His audience was so favorably impressed with the presentation of his subject that a brief summary of the address is given as follows:

"Tuesday's landslide cannot be accounted for by any expenditure of money, or by the excellence of Jim Farley's political machine, though both of these doubtless played their part, as they always have in the past. It is clear that the masses are on the march. With such a tremendous vote of confidence, Mr. Roosevelt wields unprecedented power and confronts a solemn responsibility. Every true American must hope and pray that he will meet it with ability and genuine statesmanship."

Mr. Sewall then went on to discuss the problems which confront the nation, and which must in some way be solved, if true prosperity is to come. Among those were unemployment; a balanced budget; the necessary amendment of the social security act, to make it practical and workable; and "redistribution of wealth."

The final, and most important problem, in the speaker's opinion, is the direction of government policy. Referring to an article by
