Tryon Concern Being Sued In Spartanburg

Testimony in the case of E. W. Neighbors, trading and doing business as the Carolina Machinery Company, against Tryon Builders Supply company was nearing completion in county civil court Monday when the session was recessed for the day.

The suit involves a claim of $200 made by Neighbor against the supply company for alleged services rendered the defendant last year, according to the complaint. The answer alleges that the work was not satisfactory, as allegedly required under a contract.—Spartanburg Herald.

BOOK WEEK AT THE LIBRARY

The week, November 15 to 21, marks the eighteenth observance of Children's Book Week. Each year a theme is chosen and this year it is "Books to Grow On", around which exhibits and programs will be built by libraries, schools, book stores, clubs and other organizations.

The Lanier library plans as usual to celebrate the week with a table of new books for the children; also a display of some interesting old children's books loaned by Mrs. Dorothy Brintnall. Grades from the school will come to the library for the yearly instruction in its use, and it is hoped that many people will take this opportunity to look over the new and old books on display.

"YOUNG PEOPLE AND THEIR PROBLEMS" IS DISCUSSED AT P.-T. A. MEETING

"Young People and Their Problems" was the subject of the talk Monday of Mrs. Louise Earle, dean of the girls high school of Greenville, S. C., who spoke at the November meeting of the Tryon Parent-Teacher Association at the school auditorium.

Mrs. Earle, who is a student of the problems of the high school-age and has had wide experience in this work, has addressed the organization three times; each time helping the parents and teachers to understand and solve some of the complexing problems of the young people of today. Mrs. Earle spoke of how are we going to expect our children to accept our ideas when there are various standards. Our neighbor, who is well respected and a good citizen may think it wrong to play cards or dance, when another neighbor thinks it's all right. How does the child know whose ideas to accept? Mrs. Earle urged the parents to analyze the problems and see how many of them threaten the fundamental, morality and health—of why we object to these things? Is it because of tradition, prejudice, etc.? Be well informed about facts concerning the various problems such as smoking, drinking, etc., and get data, and facts to the effect on health. Mrs. Earle believes the best way to solve the problems for parents to get the confidence of the children at home. We can't live in friction in our own home and expect the children to be different.
