

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(The Smallest Daily Newspaper In The World)

Vol. 9, Est. 1-31-28 TRYON, N. C., FRIDAY, JAN. 1, 1937

FILLERS

The New Year Holiday didn't bother the Banty Rooster today. The stores were open, but Thanksgiving and Christmas shut him out of the stores and he failed to get the caresses from clerks up and down the street. Consequently he was even polite to a stray cat, also shut out and hugging the warm sides of the building. Knowing the Banty's dislike for cats I inquired of Judge Leland Butler the reason for this unusual tolerance. He stated that the Banty doesn't mind a cat hanging around if no one pets it. The Banty is just jealous and will only attack when some one begins to stroke a cat and say, something like "nice kitty, kitty". Then you may look for spurs. Very human!

The jury list for Polk county's January term of the Superior court is published in this week's issue of The Polk County News. According to Sheriff W. D. Hines, court will convene on January 25, at Columbus with Judge Clement presiding, assisted by Solicitor Clarence O. Ridings. Nine Tryon men have been selected for jury service.

Tryon's Thermal Belt was working a few weeks ago. Local people who played golf in Tryon under a nice warm sunshine and then went up the mountains less than six miles away and found power lines, and trees fallen to the ground loaded with icicles. Little Douglas Helms looking at the glassy forest with the sun shining like diamonds through millions of frozen rain drops, said, "This

Continued on Back Page

TODAY

This week's Polk County News published Arthur Brisbane's "This Week" column. It will probably be the last unless Mr. Brisbane had some copy for the weekly paper already written just before his death. The Polk County News endeavors to get the best features it can afford. Mr. Brisbane was the highest paid newspaper writer in the world.

The New Year was opened with celebrations all over the United States last night and many Tryonites scattered to many parts for the celebrations. Some had parties at their homes, a number went to Harmon Field and shot fire-crackers. The editor turned the radio on to hear the big noises in New York.

30,000 men connected with the automobile industry are on strike. It will affect many other industries. May retard prosperity for the New Year.

Roger Babson predicts that business will surpass 1936 according to statements issued in the metropolitan papers.

Chang, the Chinese general who kidnaped Chiang Kai Shek, was sentenced to 10 years in prison yesterday, but he is expected to be pardoned.

New York's New Year suppers cost from $8 to $20 per plate.

Spain's loyalist forces are still holding their own against rebels.

The family of the kidnaped child, Wash., had has made a deal with the abductors and assured the child's freedom. The child is being held for $200,000.