IN THE MAIL

Miss Eloise LeBeau of Lansing, Mich. renews her subscription to the Bulletin and writes that Dr. Anna Starring, of Pasadena, California, formerly of Detroit, and a frequent visitor to Tryon, had passed away a few days ago.

J. E. Doidge, a Canadian carpenter, skilled in cabinet making and interior woodworking, who made Tryon his home for many years, renews his subscription to the Bulletin from Spartanburg, S. C. where he is now making his home for the present.

The Bulletin is now going to Senator and Mrs. F. P. Bacon at Raleigh. The Bulletin has been attending the North Carolina General Assembly at every session for the past nine years.

The Journalism class of the J. M. Vogt High School, Ferguson, Missouri is sponsoring an exhibit of Newspapers of the World and requests a copy of the Tryon Daily Bulletin.

A school teacher at Las Vegas, New Mexico writes Miss Mae I. Flentye, "Thanks so much for the little papers (Bulletins). We all enjoyed them including the editor of our daily paper and my English classes."

Our request for copies of the Dec. 21 issue of the Bulletin was so thoughtfully complied with from one end of the United States to the other that it makes an overloaded editor feel happy that so many friends of the Bulletin were considerate enough to mail their copies from Buffalo, N. Y. and Charleston, S. C. A goodly number were brought to the office in person.
