Dunbar Library

Under the auspices of the colored P.T.A., Mabel Hannon, pres. a beginning has been made toward starting a library for the colored people of Tryon. The inintial impulse was a gift of fifty dollars made by a lady in Washington who does not let her left hand know what her right hand does. The books are to be placed in the high school building, and will be in the care of one of the teachers acting as librarian, but they are intended for the use of all members of the Negro Community, old as well as young. The immediate object is to place in the library one hundred well chosen books, with the hope and expectation that the numbers will be increased as the need is evidenced by the use made of the library.

Prof. L. R. Wells, principal of the high school, and Mr. E. E. Bradley, who was for some years on the faculty of Hampton Institute, Virginia, are especially interested in promoting the library. Miss Mary F. Carpenter, librarian of Lanier library, is giving her valuable help in selecting the books for Dunbar Library.
