KENNETH WILLIAMSON thinks he is fixed for catching the "monster" in the lake at Norris dam, which he says has never been mastered. He says his daddy-in-law's new fishing pole will turn the trick. Joe King was recently passing the conspicuous cane-brake on the left of the highway from Tryon to Columbus and saw that a section was being cleared. He hopped out and cut a pole with his pocket knife and it now hangs suspended lengthwise of the King Hardware company, covering a distance of 40 feet and two inches from the but to tip with a circumference of seven inches. The joints about midway are 15 inches apart. Observers are generally surprised to know such a reed grew in Western Carolina.—Noah Hollowell in Hendersonville Times-News.

Observers shouldn't be surprised for Tryon always does the unusual even to raising cane in a big way.
