

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(The Smallest Daily Newspaper In The World)

Vol. 10, Est. 1-31-28 TRYON, N. C., MONDAY, JUNE 28, 1937

Miller-Cowan

Miss Pauline Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Miller of Polk county, Chesnee, S. C., and Mr. A. J. Cowan, Jr., son of A. J. Cowan, Sr. of Tryon were married this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Tryon Presbyterian Manse with the Rev. D. M. McGeachy officiating. The groom is a well-known Tryon business man, a graduate of Tryon high school, owner of the Sandwich Shop and co-owner and manager of the Tryon Cafe. The bride has been in charge of the wood-carving department of the Tryon Toymakers for a number of years and is a young woman of unusual talent. The young couple made a short trip to South Carolina this afternoon and will return to Tryon on Tuesday to make their home on Godshaw Hill at the Leonard Bradfield house which they recently bought.

Whiskey Car Hits Sou. Freight Train

A moonshiner's delivery car hit a Southern Railway freight train Saturday night about 9:30 at the Bud Mill's crossing on Howard Street. Chief Fred Wofford, investigating said that the car driver evidently thought he was being chased and tried to beat the train to the crossing. Three men were reported to have been in the auto, but they escaped. The car was completely wrecked when it hit the train. A ten gallon keg of "licker" and a case of broken jars were found in the automobile.

"CURB" REPORTER

Out of Uncle Bill Stearn's post-office comes what is probably the world's largest newspaper, The Inquirer and Mirror, of Nantucket, Island, Mass., arrived through courtesy of Bishop Touret. It is nine columns wide and they are wider columns than the Asheville papers . . . The chigger weed to me is one of the prettiest wild flowers I have ever seen. They make the hillsides here pretty . . . Dock Wilson, the star route mail man drives in from Mill Spring with the first cotton blossom we have seen this year. Came off farm of Jake Shehan, Mill Spring Route 3 . . . John Waymon, who lost his house by fire several weeks ago is deeply indebted to the kind friends who have helped him out. Needs now an ice box and some chairs . . . Joe McEntire, who lost his house and belongings last week says he would like some work to do, even a half day would help . . . Major Sharp is still distributing used magazines to people out in the county. Before you go away on vacation how about sending all your old magazines to the Bulletin office for Major Sharp. . . The A. H. Greens have moved their garage from Payne street to their house on the horse shoe bend . . . Jay Derby came back from Ohio with a new car . . .

—Continued on Back Page—