

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(The Smallest Daily Newspaper In The World)

Vol. 10, Est. 1-31-28 TRYON, N. C., WED., JULY 21, 1937

Bound To Court

On Assault Charge

Rufus Gosnell was tried in magistrate's court Tuesday on charges growing out of an affray in which Henry Shankle, Sr., was painfully injured recently, and was ordered held for the next term of Superior Court.

"Mystery" Solved

The rattling mystery of the falling stones inside a suburban residence Monday night, was apparently solved when the stones gave way to buttons, shoe horns, etc., at a later hour. Members of the sheriff's force and of the town police were called to investigate the shower of stones inside the house, and working from the fact that, stones, to fall, must first go up, and to go up, stones usually must have some assistance. This assistance was soon found to be coming from sources other than supernatural, as was first suspected, and the case is marked closed.

"Fresh" Corn

J. B. McKaig, of Lynn, presented us with an unusually odd ear of corn. This ear of corn was growing in the tassel of the stalk; and the sprouts or tassel itself, has grains of corn scattered about. The ear has no shuck, and appears ready for cooking. It was raised by Mr. McKaig.

Two negroes taken from cell in Florida and lynched.

Another court bill compromise, acceptable to foes, predicted.

'Curb' Reporter

The curb reported is taking a holiday today as the guest of Mrs. Parsons at Montreat, N. C. Never been there. Here 'N' Yonder Johnson and As I See It Dedman of The Polk County News will have to pinch hit . . . There is so much to do that it is hard to get away even for a day . . . Elizabeth Kerhulas has some guests. Hope they get their names in time for today's paper . . . Somebody said that there is a visitor at Mrs. Morgan's . . . Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Anderson returned to Ballengers this week from their vacation . . . Barbara Lincoln is expected home Saturday from Baltimore . . . The Misses Pitkin are expected home today from Brevard . . . Jimmy Little was supposed to bring in an article Tuesday about the Boys' club . . . One of the most interesting jobs is that of Agnes McLeod, Polk county home demonstration agent, who spoke at the Kiwanis club in Columbus Tuesday and told of the wonderful work the women and young people of the county are doing in self development. 900 women in the county belong to the women's clubs which are enriching farm home life in many ways. It is fascinating to hear of the progress made . . . 45,000 women in the state belong to these clubs. Ruth Current, the state director, who succeeded Dr. Jane McKimmon, was a classmate of the writer's wife at Meredith . . . Sally Cathey wanted an ad in today for the Blue Ridge Weavers telling about their new greeting card display . . . Al Bowen is giving away interesting books with

Continued on back page