

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(The Smallest Daily Newspaper In The World)

Vol. 10, Est. 1-31-28 TRYON, N. C., MONDAY, JULY 26, 1937

Southern Pediatric Seminar Opens Today

Saluda, July 25.—The 17th annual session of the Southern Pediatric seminar will open here tomorrow and continue for two weeks.

Child specialists from many southern states will participate and lectures by prominent specialists and clinics on child disease will feature the session.

The faculty will include specialists from North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia, Louisiana and Florida.

"CURB" REPORTER

Ruth Manville's Cuban letter may look long, but you'll enjoy every bit of it . . . Tryon's Country club put on a gay appearance Sunday afternoon . . . Went out to play tennis and both courts were occupied. The club house and golf links were entertaining guests . . . Ed Barber says that his cow which recently gave birth to twin calves is now giving 26 quarts of milk daily. Guernsey-Jersey breed . . . J. G. Monroe who recently resigned as registrar of vital statistics for Town of Tryon is still the registrar for Tryon Township outside of the town limits. In

Continued on Page Three

Miss Manville Writes From Havana, Cuba

Miss Ruth Manville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Perry Manville, of Tryon, and a student of Duke University, has written the following interesting letter at the request of the editor:

Concha No. 11, Havana, Cuba
23 julio 1937

Dear Mr. Vining:

Now that I am about to leave, I'm just beginning to realize what a hold Cuba has on me. First there were the men who dove for pennies in the shark-infested harbor. It seemed a miracle that they were not eaten, but maybe sharks don't like dark meat. Then after the boat docked, there was the drive through Havana. Parts of it look just like any other modern city. On the way home we stopped at the huge public market which takes up an entire block, and where everything from food and clothing to hardware and furniture is sold. Near there are the places that tourists always head for. Sloppy Joe's, Dirty Dick's and Snider's Antique Shop. The Prado is the main street, the fifth avenue of Havana. Every Sunday evening the entire 900,000 inhabitants of the city, turn out in their Sunday best and stroll up and down it. It is as interesting as a circus to see them—the men have curly dark hair, long eyelashes, and wear perfume, the women are tougher-looking than the men.

Down in the center of the city is the Students' Memorial. A group of University students were

Continued on Page Two