

A Gentle Reminder

The Lanier club, which means the supporting organization of our Public Library, begins its year's activities on November 4th, and it is the hope of its executive board that all Tryonites will "stand by" as usual. No need to remind you of what the library means to Tryon; it is indispensable. But for the benefit of those who may be new-comers let us explain again our aims and our needs. The Lanier library, owned and supported by the Lanier club, is open to everyone; provides 8,565 books for the entertainment and instruction of home folk, tourists, and school children; maintains a reading room; and offers six interesting program-meetings a year. In order to keep this splendid institution alive in our community the club offers memberships in the organization ranging from $5 to $25, and it is through the generous response to our request for members that most of our yearly budget is met. A few pay entertainments and teas are given during the winter, as much for pleasant sociability as for gain, but the memberships are our real back-log. So please bear in mind the Lanier library, and send your check to Mrs. Bernard Sharp, treasurer, or to Mrs. Harkness Smith, president, or Mrs. Nelson Jackson, Jr.,
