

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(The Smallest Daily Newspaper In The World)

Vol. 10, Est. 1-31-28 TRYON, N. C., FRIDAY, OCT. 15, 1937

"CURB" REPORTER

Thanks to Albert Salley of Saluda for a big apple. It weighs one pound and is 13 inches around. Some apple! But it shows what the growers are going in Polk county. Mr. Salley has about 2,000 bushels. The Saluda growers produced this year between 40,000 and 50,000 bushels The Big Apple will be danced next Thursday night at the Tryon Country club by the Tryon high school students demonstration team. Mrs. M. B. Flynn will be the hostess and the general public, especially the guests in the inns and hotels are invited to come and witness the event Another neon sign for Tryon. Oak Hall hotel have just erected a large neon sign on the high bank at the railroad opposite the depot. Advertising pays. The most economical form of advertising is in the Tryon Daily Bulletin. For a few cents a day it will print a sign that will be read by thousands of people every day, not only in Tryon but all over the United States and in foreign countries Citizens all over the county should not miss the Boy Scout Court of Honor and free moving pictures of the Washington Jamboree which will be presented Monday night at 7:30 at the Parish House. Public invited Buchanan is selling a skull cap thing called calop

Continued on back page

McCown Heard At Kiwanis Meeting

An interesting word sketch of Tryon and its thermal belt environs featured the Kiwanis club luncheon yesterday.

Simpson F. Cannon and M. R. McCown of Tryon were speakers. Vice-president Neville Holcombe presided in the absence of President Jim McCutcheon at the 1:30 o'clock meeting at the Cleveland hotel.

Kiwanian J. Hertz Brown, in charge of the program, introduced Mr. McCown as a well known resident of Tryon and a native of South Carolina. Mr. McCown is the son of R. M. McCown, for 14 years secretary of state of South Carolina, and is a native of Florence.

In interesting description the speakers from the South and East belt conditions, widely known and recognized by the weather bureau of the U. S. Department of agriculture. He told of the civic progress and good fellowship existing in this widely known and picturesque resort center, and gave a cross-section of its people, buildings, assets and favorable location. —Spartanburg Herald.

Teachers In Asheville

With addresses by prominent speakers from the South and East scheduled to highlight the sessions, between 1,500 and 2,000 public school teachers are expected here today for the fifteenth annual convention of the Western district of the North Carolina Education association.—Asheville Citizen.