

FRIGIDAIRE is Always At The Top

A SAVING GRACE

The real, authentic optimist
Finds blessings everywhere:
They seem to rise and shine and bloom
In optimistic air.
And when the worst comes to the worst—

(It never does so—quite)
The optimist, amid the gloom
Can spy a glint of light.
Now, I'm that kind of optimist,
And here and now confess
That I've descried a tiny joy
In all this far-east mess.
Those energetic little Japs
Have done one blessed thing:
For, Pekin has its old name back,
And is no more "Pe-a-ping!"
If they should tackle Russia, too,
I really should be glad To see them re-St. Peters-back
The place called "Leningrad!"
(Hilda von Siller.)
