Payne and Turner Captured at Sanford

Sanford, N. C., Jan. 3.—A group of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents tonight captured Bill Payne and Wash Turner, notorious North Carolina escaped convicts.

Payne, the state's No. 1 bad man, and Turner, his companion, were surrounded while they sat in an automobile on Steele street here at 6:45 p. m.

The desperadoes were heavily armed, but offered no resistance when the Agents surrounded them. They were taken to Charlotte for interrogation in connection with a long list of crimes.

The federal agents swooped down on the unsuspecting pair in the heart of Sanford. The cordon of officers surrounded the men so quickly they gave up without resistance.

Residents here said four or five automobiles containing 12 or 15 G-men, armed with sub-machine guns, converged on the criminals, and made the capture.
