An Alderman Again

C. J. Lynch and M. R. McCown returned Wednesday from Columbia, S. C., where they were guests of the City of Columbia at a meeting and banquet of all living former aldermen of Columbia from 1888 to 1910. Columbia now has a commission form of government. Mr. Lynch was a former alderman and on Tuesday helped conduct a mock council meeting which "ousted" the commissioners and passed some laws of their own. After the meeting was over the alumni aldermen reinstated the commissioners. Columbia newspapers carried pictures of the affair and the City plans to make it an annual event.
