

"Whims" Again

A packed house welcomed the first showing of "Royal Whims" at the Parish House Friday night. The second performance will be presented this evening under the direction of Mrs. Louis Fuldner. The play is sponsored by the Garden club. Those who saw the play last night are high in their praise of the play and actors—"Fine"; "Grand" "Very Good", etc are their comments. "And the audience laughed so much I missed some of the words of the actors." The house was packed to standing room only, and not much of that was left.

AFTER TODAY — TOMORROW—That which lies just around the corner, that which is still hidden by the impenetrable veil of the future, is the thing that keeps us alive and fresh and young and interested. And those who have been fortunate enough to make that discovery need not go in search of the fountain of youth in some distant El Dorado. They carry youth itself in their hearts.—Hendrick Willem van Loon, author and historian, in the Rotarian Magazine.
