

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(THE WORLD'S SMALLEST DAILY NEWSPAPER)

Vol. 11. Est. 1-31-28

TRYON, N. C., MONDAY, MARCH 7, 1938

Letters

Miss Mae Irene Flentye,
Tryon, N. C.

Dear Miss Flentye:

I appreciate your writing very much indeed. I will be much pleased if you will pass on my explanation to the Garden club and I will be exceedingly sorry if they do not appreciate our position. As I think you know, we are very much interested in improving the appearance of our property and had plans looking toward that end.

This deluge of wood took us by surprise. It happened altogether as a result of the precipitate recession in business which started last September. The growing of pulp wood in Polk county is, I believe one of the best crops the farmers can have. It holds the soil and permits the growth of a crop on land which, if cultivated, would wash. We, therefore, made a great effort to find a market for wood. It has been a great relief and a boon to the farmers of Polk county. You can see from the pile how the farmers have responded to this opportunity.

In the ordinary course of events this wood would have been shipped almost as soon as it came in. In fact, much of it would have been loaded right from trucks on to freight cars. When the recession hit us, and we were informed that the mills could not take wood at present, we were faced with the question of whether to shut off the farmers or to take the wood and hold it until the mills were ready to accept the wood. So many farmers were dependent on the wood for their meat and bread that we decided to take the wood. We

Continued on back page

Tryon's Seventh Annual Dog Show Attracts Crowd

By EDITH MISSILDINE

In Asheville Citizen-Times

Tryon, March 5.—An unusually large number of residents and visitors to Tryon turned out today for the seventh annual dog show, which took place at Harmon Field at 2 o'clock. The balmy spring weather added zest to the occasion and each of 11 classes passed off smoothly.

H. B. Vanderhoef was in charge of entries, assisted by Captain R. F. Zogbaum, and Jerry D. Drew. The show was directed by K. A. Bowen. Judges included Walter West, Middleburg, Va., George W. Vanderhoef, Jr., New York City, and Mrs. David Baker, Greenwich, Conn. M. B. Flynn acted as master of ceremonies, and ribbons were presented to the winners by Miss Isabel DuCharme.

Spectators lined the ring in which the dogs were shown by their owners.

An unusual feature of the show was the dog and owner relay race, in which dogs were lined up on one side of the ring with their owners on the other. At a signal, the dogs were released to run to their owners, who then seized them by the leash and returned to the other side of the ring. This really difficult feat was won by Bob Donaldson with "Buddy".

After the grand parade, which started proceedings, 10 classes were held, in which the winners were as follows:

Class 2, dog with largest feet—

Continued from page three