Tax Man Coming

L. S. Summey, North Carolina State Deputy Collector of Revenue in this district will be in Tryon all day Friday, March 11, at the office of Town Manager C. H. Helms for the purpose of assisting anyone in the preparation of state income and intangible personal property taxes, due March 15. He will also attend to any kind of special state taxes such as privilege licenses. Any single person must pay tax on incomes of $1,000 or more, married persons on income of $2,000 or more, less $200 for each child.

A Visit To Old South for $1

All visitors, hotel and inn guests will have an opportunity Saturday to visit the most outstanding old Southern plantation of this section for only one dollar. This price includes taxi fare across the county and back for about 30 miles. It includes the admission to the estate which is not possible at any other time except by special permission. It includes refreshments to be served on the plantation. Miss Maude Cox, the owner of Green River Plantation, will be present to greet the visitors. This unusual opportunity is made possible only because the Tryon Garden club members are lending their automobiles and drivers to make this pilgrimage a success. Last year the pilgrimage was conducted to Tryon gardens and 65 people attended. Many more people are expected this year with such a rare treat offered

Counties Urged To Follow Up State's Advertising Drive

The names and addresses of the 10,000 or more persons who have written for information regarding North Carolina as a result of the state's national advertising campaign, have been sent to every board of county commissioners in the state, to every Chamber of Commerce, and to other recognized agencies, where they should be on file at the present time for the use of the citizens in those counties, it was announced today by F. P. Bacon, chairman of the Governor's Hospitality Committee in Polk county.

The Advertising Division of the Department of Conservation and Development keeps a record of every inquiry received and every week or ten days prepares lists containing the names and addresses of all persons who have written for information about the state, which are sent to the boards of county commissioners and other organizations in every county. These agencies in the counties, cities, and towns are asked to keep these lists on file and to make them available to any citizens or organizations that may want to use them in following up the State Advertising Campaign.

"These lists are much more valuable to the local communities than they are to the Department of Conservation and Development as to the state as a whole, since they make it possible for the local communities, either through in-
