

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(THE WORLD'S SMALLEST DAILY NEWSPAPER)

Vol. 11. Est. 1-31-28

TRYON, N. C., TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1938

Preview Today of Aiken Pictures

A private preview of the paintings of Chas. Aiken, the artist, will be shown this afternoon at Mrs. B. King Couper's Rock House Art Gallery. These pictures have received much praise from critics all over the country. The Brooklyn Eagle said:

"Especially noted in the group are views of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, which the artist has painted from an unusual angle. They might be described as closeups of the subject and are painted looking down into the canyon from the summit. Curiously, in concentrating on this single aspect, the vastness of the subject is more convincingly presented than if the traditional panoramic composition had been attempted. Incidentally, the design and color of the rock stratas resolve themselves into fascinating abstract patterns.

"The flower still-life's also included in the exhibition, again evince the artist's sensitive appreciation of his subject, which a sure draftsmanship and a certain austerity of color and design prevent from becoming sweetened or sentimentalized."

The exhibition will be open to the public every afternoon from March 16th to April 2nd.

SENIOR PLAY AT COLUMBUS WEDNESDAY

The Senior class play of the Stearns high school will be presented on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Stearns auditorium in Columbus.

Tryon Girl Famous For Her Beauty

The Washington (D. C.) Sunday Herald carried four attractive pictures of Miss Avilla Hinckley-Brooks because of her growing fame as a beautiful girl. The Herald says: "There is a girl out in Arlington county so beautiful that she gets letters from women all over the country asking her how she got that way. She is Avilla Hinckley-Brooks, 17-year-old freshman at Arlington Hall school. This year judges at the Dartmouth Winter Carnival took one look at her wavy blond hair and heavily lashed blue eyes, and unanimously named her queen of the festival. Miss Hinckley-Brooks' conquests do not rest on beauty alone. She is the best all-round athlete at the school. She can turn a neat figure 8 on a pair of skates, and can perform a treacherous slalom on skis. In addition to being an expert swimmer, tennis player and golfer she can take jumps on horseback with ease and confidence."

Miss Hinckley-Brooks' Tryon home is in Gillette Woods, and is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hopkins and family.

FLAG TOURNAMENT

On Friday and Saturday of this week two flag tournaments will be played at the Tryon Country club. One for men and one for women. The men will play 18 holes and the women 9 holes. These are handicap events and entrants are requested to hand in their scores to Larry Brooks so that he can arrange proper handicaps. Prizes for first and second place.