GLEE CLUB IN ASHEVILLE

York and has included Pittsburgh, Louisville, St. Louis, Memphis, and other cities enroute. The Yale singers enjoy a unique reputation in college circles; under Mr. Barthomomew's guidance they have become recognized as one of the outstanding American men's choruses. They have represented this country at European singing conventions twice in the last twelve years, and at the present time plans are being made for a third trip abroad in the summer of 1939.

Featured on the Yale men's Asheville program are Van Griggs, '29, tenor soloist, and an octet which has promised renditions of two well-known Carolina mountain ballads, Cindy and Sourwood Mountain, especially for the occasion. Among other numbers of note are 'De Animals a-Comin'', a negro spiritual arranged by Mr. Barthomomew, 'Our Boat Sits Lightly on the Waves', a ballad of the Eli crew made doubly vivid by the well-drilled oarsmanship of eight stalwarts and a singing coxswain, and a spirited rendition of Tarantella that has been a specialty this year. The Battle of the Books, describing a humorous incident in the early days of the college is also a new feature; words and music are by former members of the club.

Tanner Banning and college-mate, Alexander Saxton, of New York have arrived from Harvard to spend their vacation at Frinedly Hills, Tryon home of Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning.
