Extract of Negro School Report

The 16th annual report of the Tryon Colored School was made by Principal L. R. Wells this week to Superintendent W. A. Schilletter. It showed a decrease in attendance due to measles, but an increase in enrollment of nine to 209. Progress made in creating a reading habit and use of library. Athletics were off compared with last year. The girls basketball team lost only two games. The boys won 8 and lost 5. Girls outfitted with new uniforms. The Dramatic club of the English department presented "Where's Grandma," a successful play on May 5. The Science department showed periodic field trips, booklet making and a visit to Dudley Smith's Brookhill Poultry Farm. Entire school attended the County Fair at Spartanburg. All faculty members joined State Teachers Association. The Boy Scout troop progressing nicely and expects to attend the Colored Camp at Kings Mountain. The Home Economics had an interesting exhibit of things made in the school. The Dunbar Library reports gifts of many books and an encyclopedia. The P.-T. A. beautified the grounds, put in a telephone for nine months and bought a $20 school bell. Building reported in good shape but in need of paint. The faculty presented a play, "He's My Pal". The Board of Health examined every student and instructions followed where recommended. The Rev. Eugene Avery of Rutherfordton gave the baccalaureate sermon and Dr. E. A.

Memorial In Smokies For Zeb Weaver

Thousands of friends of Congressman Zebulon Weaver have signed a petition to have a mountain in the Great Smokies named for Mr. Weaver in recognition of his services to the district and nation. He has had an outstanding record of achievement in securing worthwhile projects for this section and he worked hard to get the Smoky Mountain National Park.

Lee Green

Lee Green, 72, died Monday noon at the home of S. B. Edwards in Tryon. Burial service today at Peniel church. Mr. Green was a native of Polk county and was wellknown throughout this section. He had been living in Tryon for the past two months.

Romance In A New Setting

Miss Betty Doubleday, teacher of the Tryon Seventh Grade graduation class will direct the grade's annual play tonight at the school auditorium. "Dowry of Columbine", a fantasy, will be a performance full of humor, music and dancing; romance in an entirely new setting—at the foot of the rainbow, then happiness threatened by blustering buccaneers.

Peter Levine's death stumps police. Examiners inclined to think kidnaped child strangled and carried to sea.
