

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(The World's Smallest Daily Newspaper)

Vol. 11. Est. 1-31-28

TRYON, N. C., FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1938

Carolina on the March

The talk made by Dr. Hurst of the Appalachian Forest Experiment Station before the Tryon Garden club revealed conditions that should be known and advertised all over the State. Few of us realized that such things could be, here within a stone's throw of us. The pictures shown might well have been taken in an Arizona desert, yet they are to be verified within a few hours ride of Tryon. Mountainsides have been stripped for pulp and overcultivated for farming. In either case the run off of water is greatly increased. Soil that is tilled much more subject to erosion, of course, because it becomes compact and loses its absorbing power. A striking illustration of the relation between ground cover and run off was seen in the illustrative Los Angeles flood of 1934, where a 4,000 acre section of burned-over land discharged 1,700 per cent more water than did a similar area of unburned land. Not only the volume but the velocity and force of the run off increases tremendously. Little furrows on the surface become deeper with each rain and soon we have unsightly red gullies and barren rocky hillsides: And what about the fellow just below. Has he no redress for the flooding of his

—Continued on Back Page—

Dance Tonight

The regular Friday evening dance at Sunnydale will be held tonight with the Rock-ola furnishing the music. The admission is 50 cents per couple or stags.

"CURB" REPORTER

Mary Crapo's cute little Bedlington puppy, Baba, was run over and killed by a motorist in the country recently . . . Mayor B. B. Waldrop of Rutherfordton has resigned and been succeeded by J. J. Stockton, mayor protem . . . A. J. Henderson, 55, building contractor of Hendersonville who made a specialty of building movie theatres designed by Stilwell, was killed in an auto collision Thursday morning near Charlotte . . . A report is out that the government is going to spend so much money that even the taxpayers will get hold of some of it . . . Shakespeare said: "Give to a gracious message a host of tongues" . . . Tryon plays baseball at Sayles on Saturday . . . Dance tonight at Sunnydale. The college set arriving home will have more entertainment this summer than heretofore . . . Today is Edward and Wally's first wedding anniversary. . . . Mrs. Zebulon Weaver, wife of the Congressman is in a critical condition and not expected to live Maj. Bernard Sharp will be glad to distribute your magazines to the less fortunate when you are through reading them The Bishop Tourets will arrive at Nantucket today. . . . Lefty Flynn saw the big fight while in New York . . . Some northern visitors were surprised to find that it was necessary to

—Continued on Back Page—