

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(The World's Smallest Daily Newspaper)

Vol. 11. Est. 1-31-28

TRYON, N. C., TUESDAY, AUG. 2, 1938

ADDITIONS TO THE LIBRARY

During the past month the Lanier library has been the recipient of a number of books, some of them very recent publications.

Non-Fiction

Bird Notes, from the journal of a nature lover, by Ross.

Call It A Day; a play, by Dodie Smith.

Chinese Gardens, by Dorothy Graham.

Concord River, by William Brewster.

Garden Bulbs in Color, by J. H. MacFarland and others.

On the Wind of Chance; poems, by Mrs. V. K. Cummins.

Prize Poems, 1913-1929; ed. by C. A. Wagner.

The Star-Wagon; a play, by Maxwell Anderson.

Fiction

Kindling, by Nevil Shute.

The Mortal Storm, by Phyllis Bottome.

Parts Unknown, by Mrs. F. F. Keyes.

Children's Books

Across the Pacific, by Dixon.

Adventures of Johnny Jackrab-bit, by Harris.

Aesop for Children.

Aunt Jo's Scrap-Bag, by Alcott.

The Friends of Jimmy, by Kay.

Garden Adventures of Tommy Tittlemouse, by Judson.

The Gateway to Storyland, by Piper.

The Good-Naughty Book, by Rippey.

Katrina and Jan, by Bailey.

Little Bear at Work and Play,

---Continued On Back Page---

"CURB" REPORTER

Joe O'Leary and Bill Brooks, two Canadians are leaving Detroit on Sunday for a trip to Polk county to visit Mrs. Lillie Taylor and family in Cooper's Gap for a day. They have never been South of Cleveland . . . Lucretia DeWitt will do the Big Apple and Susy Q on Friday at Stearns auditorium in Columbus . . . Stearns high school students are putting out their own mimeograph school paper called the Stearns Broadcast. It is a very interesting little paper . . . Selina Lewis, hostess at Thousand Pines Inn has been with the High Hampton Inn at Cashiers this summer . . . Got introduced to those new metal cap milk bottles on Saturday. They are nice . . . Expressed my preference for the Forestry Department's green uniform over the Army khaki. There was an explosion from Major Sharp. I didn't talk any more . . . And J. N. Jackson, a man who knows figures, states that Hughes did not fly around the world but only around the top of it. It is about 24,000 miles around the world at the equator, whereas Hughes travelled about 14,000 miles. . . . George Dillwyn said, "A timely kindness is a double good." . . . Those Garden club articles in the Bulletin telling about plants and flowers are written by Diana Nash. One appeared yesterday . . . .