

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

(The World's Smallest Daily Newspaper)

Vol. 11. Est. 1-31-28 TRYON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, AUG 24, 1938

Among the most interesting items in the Bulletin from time to time are the communications from our friends and correspondents over the United States and foreign countries. When Virginia Graham's letters become overdue friends begin asking about it. Sam Bingham, Jr., says that he hasn't heard much from his parents in England but that they were due to sail for America about September 14th, arriving in Tryon about the 22nd. Cable from Harkness Smith the other day stated that he had arrived in London. Lefty Flynns writing from Dennis, Cape Cod, Mass., where they are spending a few weeks with the Frederick Bowes after visiting the Jim Perkins and Franklin Parkers in Connecticut, say that Betty Doubleday and a friend dropped in for a visit the other night and that Betty said square dances are coming back to the Cape. Jane D. Cushing writes that the Bulletin comes to her regularly at Bath, Maine, where she has been spending the summer . . . . . Dr. C. Arthur Lincoln reported Tuesday at the Tryon Kiwanis club meeting that a school of dramatics was interested in locating in Tryon. Need large house, barn for theater, etc. . . . . N. R. Rector, Jr., took the role of editor this month and wrote a page for a Southern Beauty Culture magazine. It was full of in-

—Continued on Back Page—

World Traveller Spends Week At Tryon Camp; Says Finest He's Seen

The writer of this article, Rev. Kerrison Juniper, D. D., of Ormand, Florida, who has been vacationing with his family in Tryon for the past three summers, has been associated with Scouting for many years.

He has lived in six countries and has held pastorates in England, South Africa, Australia, Canada, the United State.

Throughout his ministry, he has found time to hold all the offices in the Boy Scout Organization, from Scoutmaster to Scout Executive.

On one of his trips to England, he spent some time with Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout Movement.

This summer, Dr. Juniper acted as Scoutmaster of the Tryon troop during their week at Piedmont Camp. For the past two summers, he has taken all his merit badge work towards Eagle Scout rank under the Piedmont Camp council.

THE EDITOR.

* * * *

An Appreciation of the Piedmont Boy Scout Camp.

As one who has been closely associated with Scout work for 25 years, having visited many troops throughout this and other countries, I have no hesitancy in saying that I consider Piedmont Camp the best conducted and finest Boy Scout camp it has been my privilege to visit.

It is ideally located on Lake Lanier about two miles from Tryon, and its modern, up-to-date

—Continued on Page Three—