TRYON GARDEN CLUB

The Tryon Garden Club held its first meeting of the fall at Pearson's Falls. Miss Helen Stearns, the new president, presided and Miss Witherspoon of Spartanburg hostess, entertaining with a delightful picnic tea. The club was greatly interested to hear a report from the Roadside Committee and to see the work actually in progress, of beautifying the highway.

The president urged all members to notify Mrs. Canfield, chairman of the Membership Committee, of their renewal for the coming year.

The club has a large waiting list and a limited membership.

It is therefore desirable to know the exact number in order to admit new members. Dr. Coker of Chapel Hill will address the club at the October meeting. Other programs of interest have been planned.

Mary Louise is the name of a daughter born on September 17th, to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Carrigan, nee Josephine Hill, of Burlington, N. C. The mother is the daughter of the late A. L. "Link" Hill, former sheriff of Polk county.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Law leave this weekend for a visit to Mrs. Law's old summer home, the Williams estate, in Nacoochee Valley, Georgia.

Grace Mills, 27, daughter of Jess and Grover Mills, well-known colored citizen, died Thursday morning. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. Burial probably Sunday.

The advertisement features a central illustration of a Dacro milk bottle. To the right of the bottle is a circular graphic containing several small scenes: a cow in a field, a truck, a person working, and a factory. The text 'OUR Chain OF PROTECTION IS COMPLETE' is written in a stylized font across the top and right side of the graphic. Below the bottle, the word 'Dacro' is written in a script font with 'PROTECTED' underneath it. At the bottom of the advertisement, the slogan 'BETTER MILK in a BETTER BOTTLE' is written in a bold, sans-serif font.
