

Saluda Crowns Queen Of Apple Show

true despite the fact that the crop is not nearly as good as last year.

The delicious orchard specimens come from the coves and ridges of Polk and Henderson counties, the latter county being one of the leading commercial growers of this type of fruit in North Carolina. The annual Henderson county apple crop is approximately 200,000 bushels. Although Polk doesn't grow so many, her apples are just as fine.

Arrangement of the apple display was made on Wednesday and judging was on Thursday morning. The show will continue through Saturday. Judges were G. D. White, Henderson county farm agent, and D. W. Bennett, assistant Henderson county farm agent.

Attracting much attention at the show is the 20-variety display of K. J. Davis, Saluda orchardist. An attractive background of evergreens has been provided for all the displays at the show. Top honors in the show went to:

Three tray display: Red Delicious, Albert M. Salley; Golden Delicious, K. J. Davis; Stayman, K. J. Davis; Rome Beauty, K. J. Davis; any other variety, Albert M. Salley.

Single tray display: Red Delicious, Albert M. Salley; Golden Delicious, K. J. Davis; Stayman, K. J. Davis; Rome Beauty, Albert M. Salley; any other variety, J. C. Metcalf.

Bushel pack: Red Delicious, C. E. Sanders; Golden Delicious, K. J. Davis; Stayman, C. E. Sanders; Rome Beauty, G. H. Hollifield; any other variety, K. J. Davis.

Best plate: Red Delicious, Albert M. Salley; Golden Delicious, J. C. Metcalf; Stayman, Albert M. Salley; Red Winesap, C. E. Sanders; Grimes Golden, Albert M. Salley; King David, C. E. Sanders; Rome Beauty, K. J. Davis; Black Twig, K. J. Davis; any other variety, K. J. Davis.

Variety display: K. J. Davis.
Of much interest to orchardists was a demonstration board showing the effect of apples of various fruit diseases and other injurious agencies.

E. Baity Hall, town clerk, is serving as general chairman of the fete. J. A. Wilson, Polk county farm agent, is director of the apple show.—Asheville Citizen.
